

Detroit Schools Must Improve Black Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ruling in the Detroit school case, the Supreme Court has given federal judges broad powers to impose educational programs on a school district as part of a school desegregation plan.

In a unanimous decision Monday, the justices said school desegregation remedies do not have to be limited to the reassignment of pupils (busing).

The decision upheld an order, imposed by U.S. District Judge Robert DeMascio on the Detroit school system, for an educational enrichment program, half to be paid for by the state of Michigan.

The action, however, did not alter the Supreme Court's 1974 decision that the Detroit area will not have cross-district busing. Three years ago, the high court struck down a lower court order that would have included 85 suburban school districts in the desegregation remedy.

State officials had appealed to the high court after the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati upheld DeMascio's new order calling for remedial education programs. The officials said the order means they must spend $5.8 million for the revamping of four educational programs — remedial reading, in-service teacher training, testing and counseling.

The latest court order, handed down last August, grew out of a series of court decisions designed to desegregate Detroit schools.

Michigan Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley had accused the lower courts of exceeding their authority so as to "usurp the powers of state legislatures over appropriating state funds."

The high court, in a decision written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, disagreed.

Burger said that the programs are necessary "to bring about the delayed benefits of a unitary school system."

Kelley said Monday after learning of the ruling that the state would go along despite its "deep conviction" that the decision is wrong.

"I disagree with that decision because I do not believe a federal court should have the power to order a state to make a direct payment of unappropriated funds to a local school district," Kelley said.

Gov. William Milliken said he hopes the decision "does not open the door for further directives in which the courts order the states to appropriate funds or take specific actions in other areas."

Milliken said he supported the state's appeal of the lower court order "in hopes of determining the state's rights in this issue."

In the Detroit case, the justices said federal courts may order school districts to upgrade programs aimed at helping black pupils who were discriminated against by official policies.

The court also ordered Detroit schools and Michigan to share in the cost of an $11.6-million effort to revamp remedial reading in service teaching training, in service teaching training, in service teaching training.

Dayton Busing Overturned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled unanimously Monday that lower courts went too far in ordering a school desegregation plan which required forced-busing of some 18,000 pupils in Dayton, Ohio.

The court, in sending the Dayton case back to the lower courts for a new remedy, told all federal judges to be sure to move cautiously in attempting to solve school segregation problems. The chairman of the citizen advisory board, said parents will find it difficult to watch their children be bused for desegregation this fall while knowing the Supreme Court has ordered the plan restudied.

"The knowledge that the plan will inevitably be substantially altered a year later will cause people to have considerably less enthusiasm," said Kegerreis.

The Dayton case had been viewed by busing advocates and foes as a potentially major school desegregation test. A majority of the high court had given indications that it wanted to rein the powers of federal judges to remedy proven discriminatory effects in education.

No new restrictions were laid down by the high court, however.

A desegregation plan ordered by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for all of Dayton's 68 public schools made necessary this academic year the busing of 18,000 students.

The racial makeup of each school, within 15 per cent plus or minus, now reflects the racial makeup of the entire school district. That ratio is 32 per cent white and 68 per cent black.

The court's decision, written by Justice William H. Rehnquist, said federal courts do have the authority to order busing or system-wide solutions to cure discriminatory problems but that first it must be established that the school board did intend to discriminate against black pupils.

"The duty of both the district court and of the court of appeals in a case such as this ... is to first determine whether there was any action in the conduct of the business of the school board which was intended to, and did in fact, discriminate against minority pupils, teachers or staff," Rehnquist said.

"The remedy must be designed to redress (the effect of the discrimination), and only if there has been a system-wide impact may there be a system-wide remedy," he said.

The court's only black member, Thurgood Marshall, did not participate in the decision. One of the parties in the Dayton lawsuit was the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Marshall was an attorney for that organization before joining the court.

The eight remaining justices ruled that the lower courts could have come up with a solution for the discriminatory effects found in Dayton that would not have involved the whole school district.

"There has been no showing that such a remedy was necessary to eliminate all vestiges of the state-imposed school segregation," Rehnquist's opinion said.

This term, the court had set aside sweeping busing orders for Austin, Tex., and Indianapolis schools — sending those cases back to lower courts with instructions to search for more limited remedies.

In the Austin case, the court voided the desegregation plan of the 5th U.S. Circuit with no comment. But in a concurring opinion that spoke for three justices, Lewis F. Powell Jr. said remedies must fit the discriminatory ill.

He added that remedies can be ordered only when the discrimination was caused by official policies carried out by the school board — and not something like housing patterns over which school officials have no control. The Carter administration had urged the court to leave intact the Dayton desegregation plan.

In a legal brief written by Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, the Justice Department said it had found "evidence which we

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Supporters of progressive race relations — including President Carter and Sen. Thomas Eagleton — are retreating on the civil rights front, a well-known activist asserts. "We have no intention, after all these years, and all these struggles, to allow this to go unchallenged," said Margaret Bush Wilson Monday as the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People opened its 68th annual convention here.

"I am sufficiently agitated because one of those involved is my own senator from Missouri who over the years has been a strong supporter of the civil rights thrust," she said, referring to Eagleton. Eagleton is the co-sponsor of an amendment to a Health, Education and Welfare appropriations bill that would prevent HEW funds from being used for administratively-ordered school busing. A spokesman for Eagleton said the senator is not opposed to busing when it is deemed necessary by the federal courts. "But for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to mandate busing administra-

In her remarks, however, Mrs. Wilson said she was unwayed by that argument. "Sen. Eagleton," she said, "we will not compromise. Sen. Eagleton, we will not forget."

Mrs. Wilson also leveled criticism at Carter, saying that the President has not "forthrightly declared his support" for emergency jobs legislation. The White House has not commented on that charge.

Mrs. Wilson said the NAACP may have to seek new alliances to meet growing legal and financial problems.

About 4,000 delegates have gathered for the week-long NAACP convention.

problems. But the court did not appear to break any new constitutional ground in such cases.

The justices, voting 8-0, ordered Dayton school officials to keep the desegregation plan in force for another school year, while the lower courts work out a more limited remedy.

She Wore Grin And Little Else

WOLVERINE, Mich. (AP) — Driving home from a bar has many hazards, but nothing like what an unidentified motorist nearly ran into early today: A red-haired woman, 6-foot-6 and more than 200 pounds, wearing "glasses, tennis shoes and a grin" who jumped at him out of the bushes.

The night duty sergeant at the Cheboygan state police post gave this account, based on the report of a trooper who investigated.

The trooper was told by the motorist, "I had been drinking in a bar and was on my way home but I was not drunk. And I'm a lot less drunk now than I was before. This woman jumped out in front of me from the bushes. She don't have a stitch on. She's wearing glasses, tennis shoes and a grin. I ran off into the ditch to get around her and get home."

Sheriff's deputies went with the investigating trooper.

other reports of the red-haired highwaywoman.

They turned up some potential suspects.

The closest they got to the ambusher was a woman 5-foot-11, somewhat lighter than described.

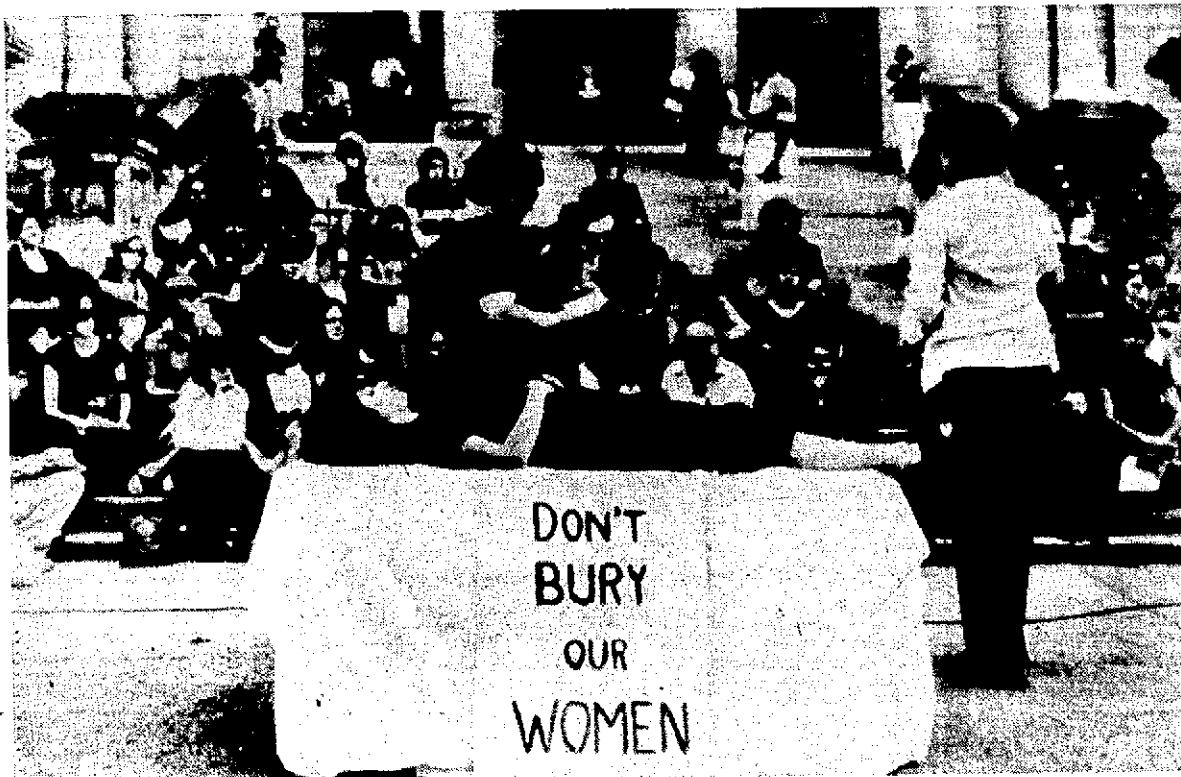

Witnesses said they could not identify her because she was fully clothed.

"They had a little skinny dipping party and wanted to live things up," the sergeant recounted. "Nobody could identify them so there's nothing we can prosecute for. But we know who did it. The trooper said he 'counselled and advised' them."

The sergeant was asked what he could charge the woman with.

"Obstructing traffic," he said. Asked his name, the sergeant said, "Oh no you don't. Not me."

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

President Carter Makes A Tax Gesture

In his final campaign speech of 1976, Jimmy Carter reminded a Los Angeles audience that an Internal Revenue Service survey for 1975 showed some 800 persons with over $100,000 incomes paid no tax for that period.

The complexities of the income tax code, declared Candidate Carter, make it possible for tax sharpies to lay the burden on others whom the law does not supply a loophole.

The hour for tax reform is fast approaching, he declared.

While on the campaign trail, Carter did not mention the fact that in the 1975 tax year he paid something under $18,000 or 13 per cent of a $137,000 net taxable income. Normally the tax bite would have been over $68,000.

He was able to cut the tax squeeze by $50,000 through a credit for investment in machinery and equipment for the family-owned peanut processing plant at Plains, Georgia.

Last week Jimmy informed the IRS he was reducing a refund claim of $26,000 on his 1976 income tax to $20,000.

The peanut business fell off last year.

Carter's gross income of $55,000 for tax-reporting purposes was cut to $40,000 in deductions for state and local taxes, charitable contributions, and so forth.

The tax on the $40,000 would be about $12,000.

Again, by reason of the tax investment credit arising from further equipping the peanut plant, Carter's accountant came up with a $26,000 refund.

The tax credit was considerably less than in 1975, amounting to not quite $12,000, just enough to balance out the Form 1040 at zero.

The refund claim is predicted on $26,000 in estimated payments during last year.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, in announcing the $6,000 voluntary payment, told the reporters it was done for appearance's sake.

Carter believes, he said, that anyone receiving significant income should pay at least some tax.

Powell declined to be more specific because the Administration is expected to present a tax reform package to Congress later in this year.

Since Carter's limited tax liability in the past two years resulted from the tax investment credit, the White House is not anxious to stir fears in the business community that it would like to terminate or seriously reduce this incentive to invest in new machinery and equipment.

In fact, all the conversation so far from the White House indicates Carter greatly favors this credit as a means to stimulate employment.

The $6,000 voluntary payment, 15 per cent of Jimmy's net reportable income for 1976, is the rate assessed as a minimum payment on high income brackets which prior to adoption of this minimum tax liability a few years ago would escape paying any tax.

The interest from state and municipal bonds, for example, is free from the federal income tax. However, if that interest is a person's sole income, then the law imputes a fictitious additional source of revenue against which it slaps the 15 per cent minimum.

By following the minimum principle and paying half of what the tax would have been without benefit of the investment tax credit, Carter really says that not all tax loopholes are a bad thing.

At the same time he realizes how tough it would be to persuade Congress to take another whack at tax reform if its chief advocate is a major beneficiary of tax shelters.

It almost seems very few people really want a completely honest tax system.

It would take all the fun out of trying to work around the system.

Six Billion Dollars Later

After nine years of effort and $6 billion in expenditures, the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has very little to show in crime improvement in the United States — which is what it was supposed to accomplish.

Perhaps Washington is learning, in this instance at least, that it does not hold all the answers. The Justice Department is considering a major overhaul of LEAA, one which would result in more funds going directly to state and local governments. Deputy Attorney General Peter F. Flaherty also has indicated that a large part of the effort remaining at the federal level might be channeled into court and correctional systems.

Rising discontent within police departments and Congress over LEAA's performance dictates a major overhaul. The Justice Department might simply be trying to anticipate the coming changes. If so, it is on the right track by advocating law enforcement agencies at the local level be given greater leeway and funding to respond to local conditions, while concentrating federal efforts on what happens to the criminal after he is brought before the bar of justice and convicted.

That's How Ball Bounces

At a time when sports figures are commanding truly majestic salaries, someone seems intent on making the play for some at least a little easier. Sports Illustrated magazine decided the sudden jump in home runs batted in this year looked a little suspicious and asked a laboratory to check out the balls this season's players are using.

Sure enough, the 1977 baseball tested out with greater compression and resilience than last year's version. It has become easier to hit one farther. Babe Ruth never had it so good, nor did anyone else in the past.

What is good for the batter, however, is bad for the pitcher. Don't be surprised if the next legalistic ground to be broken in baseball concerns the ball itself. After all, what is a pitcher to do to protect his record if even the equipment provides an added handicap?

Well, the 1977 baseball also tested out to be harder than those of the past. No self-respecting pitcher would use that discovery to develop a less careful delivery, but it does suggest a compromise: The higher the salaries, the less responsive the ball. Let the millionaires work for it.

NUCLEAR POWER IS EXPENSIVE

Editor, Your editorial on June 22nd points out many of the problems of producing energy by means of nuclear power plants. Many will agree that a factor negative to nuclear power plants is the cost factor. But you did not tell it all.

The Palisades Plant may be an extreme example of a utility stricken with nuclear troubles, but let's consider it because it is in our own backyard. What has happened there could possibly happen at any nuclear installation.

In 1966, construction was begun at an estimated cost of $83 million. By the time the plant was completed in 1971, the cost had been $188 million. In its first year of operation, the plant developed vibrations in its fuel core and its boiler tubes began leaking, forcing the facility to shut down for more than a year. The repairs cost $3 million, but Consumers Power had to spend $6 million each month for replacement power purchased from other utilities. These costs, of course, were passed on to the consumer. But no sooner did Palisades resume operations than a turbine failed, shutting it down again. Over the next two years, boiler tube leaks continued to occur and by mid-1976 the plant had been shut down three quarters of its four and one half years for repairs. Now, Palisades officials suggest that they might have to shut down Palisades for two years for replacement of all its boiler tubes.

None of the above cost was carried by Consumers Power nor its stockholders. They simply pass on all the added costs which occur during the shutdowns. The electric utility rate formula includes a cost-plus feature which enables the utility to pass on the costs or anything it buys, from postage stamps to advertising, to the customer. The fuel adjustment clause in Michigan allows a power company to adjust its rates automatically, according to its changing fuel expenditures. And when a nuclear reactor is shut down and the utility company cannot supply its own replacement power, it can purchase it elsewhere, usually at increased costs and pass on the cost directly to the consumer. This is called a purchased power adjustment clause, enacted by the Michigan Public Service Commission because of the Palisades failures. Botted down, it is the consumer who pays for cost overruns and malfunctions commonplace at Palisades.

Power production by nuclear generation is not cheap. Cost overruns have been cited at 18 major nuclear installations in the U.S. The projected cost of the Pilgrim nuclear reactor near Plymouth Rock was $65 million. Upon completion it had cost $239 million.

The price of uranium is projected to drastically increase.

In 1973 it cost approximately $42 per pound and is expected to cost $230 per pound by 1985. Most consumers don't give much thought to what will happen to the nuclear plant after it has served its 30-year operation. Decommissioning the Elk River, Minn., nuclear facility cost $6.9 million. The plant cost $6 million to construct. Rate payers must also pay the piper when and if the time arrives when a safe method of disposal of radioactive waste is developed. And more...the nuclear power industry receives federal assistance, your tax dollar and mine, worth billions of dollars annually through the Price Anderson Act which exempts utilities from full liability in the event of a nuclear accident.

Ponder these things:

1) European officials admitted on May 2 that 200 tons of uranium disappeared by the high seas in transit from Belgium to Italy in 1968.

2) In May, the U.S. General Accounting Office revealed that since 1955 thousands of kilograms of nuclear materials have been unaccounted for.

3) On May 4, Jack O'Leary, the President's head man at the Federal Energy Administration suggested the "between now and the year 2000 there would be a serious core meltdown of a nuclear reactor."

4) The Turkey Point Reactor admits that radioactive cooling water has been repeatedly leaking into Biscayne Bay Florida and the plant may have to close down for up to two years for repairs costing $380 million.

I think we have been led down a primrose path to believe until now that energy is cheap and plentiful. It is time we began paying the true cost of energy and if we do, it will certainly give great impetus to conservation, which is a stop gap in consumption until a safe, reliable and environmentally harmless energy source can be developed such as solar energy.

World Bank
Aids Tyrants?

WASHINGTON — Is it possible that the World Bank and other international development funds are in the business of rewarding tyranny, dictatorship, repression, torture and blatant violations of human rights?

Of course not, insist the major international financial institutions, all beneficiaries of heavy financial support from the United States. But the record suggests otherwise.

—From 1970 to 1972, the Philippines received $69 million from the World Bank and three similar organizations. In late 1972, President Ferdinand Marcos imposed martial law, ordered strict censorship and arrested citizens suspected of opposition to his regime.

During 1973-75, the three years after initiation of repressive measures, aid totaled $214 million, a whopping 210 per cent increase over the three pre-dictatorial years.

—From 1970 to 1972, South Korea received $105 million from the same four international institutions. In late 1972, President Chung Park Hee placed the country under martial law, then engineered revision of the constitution which allowed him to hold office for life, weakened the legislature and restricted liberties.

During the next three years, 1973-75, aid amounted to $284 million, an increase of 170 per cent over the 1970-72 period.

—From 1971 to 1973, when Chile's government was headed by Salvador Allende, a Marxist who nevertheless attained office through a popular and constitutional election, that country received only $6.4 million from the World Bank and three other aid funds.

An Army-led coup toppled Allende in late 1973, leading to the establishment of a military junta which today governs the country under a reign of terror. During that government's first three years, aid totaled $77.6 million, a phenomenal 1,112 per cent increase.

Those figures, compiled from official reports by Americans for Democratic Action, are being quoted frequently these days as Congress and the administration wrestle with how to implement President Carter's oft-repeated pledge to emphasize human rights in our dealings with other nations.

The setting for the debate is pending legislation which authorized a United States contribution of more than $9.2 billion during the next three years to the World Bank and five similar assistance funds.

A coalition of conservative Republicans and liberal Democrats convinced the House to approve an amendment to that bill which directs this country's representatives to vote against aid "to any country which engages in a consistent pattern of gross violations of internationally recognized human rights."

The White House, however, opposes that approach on grounds it is unnecessarily negative and deprives the United States of needed flexibility and negotiating options in the financial organizations.

In a close 50-43 vote, the Senate sided with the administration, which prefers weaker language in the law, stating that this country's representatives should use their "voice and vote" to "advance the cause of human rights."

That crucial difference now remains to be resolved by a House-Senate conference committee, where there is good chance that relatively strong language will be adopted.

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. — I had not been here since Watergate, but the time seemed ripe, to say hello to an old friend at La Casa Pacifica.

As before, the Secret Service is alert and friendly. The offices hum with various activities. Everyone seems glad to see everyone else. Col. Jack Brennan wears a T-shirt and is gracious.

Visitors, often foreign political figures, are frequent. A day earlier, Mr. Richard Nixon had conferred with a congressional committee via conference-call telephone about U.S. relations with Hanol.

His attitude on that question is: What's in it for us? He doubts that there is much, if anything, to be gained by recognizing them.

I talk with two of his aides about his forthcoming autobiography. They are excited about it, and say that it will contain plenty of "news." The word is spoken with glee.

Since I had not seen Richard Nixon since before his ordeal, I did not know quite what to expect. After all, he had been through several hells. Today, one year older than the wraithlike FDR at his death, Nixon is fit, tanned, vigorous, intensely interested in domestic and foreign political developments, shrewd and impressive in what he has to say.

When he discusses upcoming political contests and speculates about tactics, the old pro's dark eyes sparkle. He pounds his fist into his palm to emphasize his points. He is like an old race horse at the sound of the bugle. He will never run for office again, but the adrenalin flows.

He speaks passionately about our energy needs. An American energy program should not consist of shared scarcity. Nice phrase. We must use our vast coal resources. Nuclear energy is vital, and we cannot pull back from it. We need the breeder reactor, the rest of the world is building them, and the technical problems can be solved.

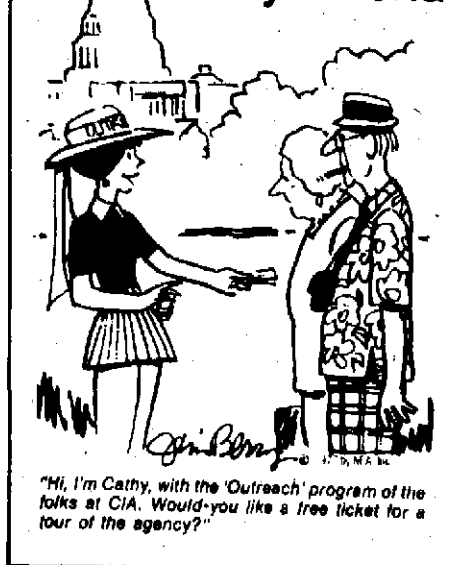

The U.S. cannot retain its influence over developments in this field if it opts out. Fusion, hydrogen power, that is the future. Scarcely, negative attitudes — that is not the American tradition. The future is always open.

In a brief but concentrated discourse, Nixon circles the globe. He analyzes succinctly the power equations in the Middle East, Southern Africa, Southeast Asia. He talks about the China-Soviet relationship, about the importance of Korea to Japan.

The Chinese, even the Communists, are subtle, patient, and accommodating diplomatically. On Korea, look out. An impression of weakness could be disastrous. The Japanese will not be on the losing side again in this century.

When we shake hands, Nixon is aglow with the pleasure of his own intellectual activity. He asks about mutual friends. Mrs. Nixon is recovering. She is a fighter. He is very alive beneath that tan, his hair still dark, flecked with gray.

BH Starts Home Spruce-Up For Oldsters

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

The City of Benton Harbor is starting a federally-funded program to spruce up the homes of low income elderly residents. Eric DeLong, coordinator for the "Residential Beautification Project," said qualified residents will get free labor for various jobs at their homes. The home owner will be charged for materials on a scale based on size and condition of the house.

DeLong said the city has received a grant of $109,367 under the federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) to hire 21 people to operate the residential beautification project.

He listed these kinds of jobs that will be done: exterior house painting, window cleaning, glass replacement and window puttying, fence painting and repair, and yard clean up.

Elderly people may apply for the project at 59 Wall street, the former Monitor Sound building.

Applicants must provide a copy of the deed or land contract on their house, information on total income and its sources, and number of people living in the household.

DeLong said 12 applications were received last week, all of them for painting. Workers in the project have been trained in use of paint, and the work will include scraping and other preparation for paint.

Eligible persons are defined as 60 and older, and they must own and live in the home for which assistance is being sought. He said these are the income limits for participation in the project:

One-person family, $3,713; two people in family, $4,913; three people, $6,113; four people, $7,313; five people, $8,513; six people, $9,713; plus $1,200 for each additional family member. Children must be living in the home and be under 18 years of age or a full-time student.

DeLong said these income limits are the correct ones and are revised from limits that appeared June 22 in an advertisement in The Herald-Palladium.

He listed these payment scales for materials (in each case, the amounts are maximum followed by exterior condition of house, and house size):

—$100, poor condition, large size; $95, fair condition, large size; $90, good, large; $85, poor, medium size; $80, fair, medium size; $75, good, medium; $70, poor, small; $65, fair, small; $60, good, small.

For one-story houses, over 1,300 square feet is considered large, 900 to 1,300 medium, and under 900 small. There is additional square footage applied for story and a half, two-level and tri-level homes.

There will be subsidies for materials that go over the maximum amounts. Les Johnson, director of community development, said community development money will be used in the development area from Britain to Emery and Colfax to Columbus. For houses outside the development area CETA administrative funds will be used, he said.

Clients will be billed accordingly for materials less than maximum rates, DeLong said.

DeLong is a graduate of Berrien Springs high school and 1977 graduate of Central Michigan university with a B.S. degree in local government. He was an administrative intern for the Bay City housing commission and plans to enter graduate school at Michigan State university in the fall.

BH Counting On Greater Gov't. Aid

Benton Harbor is counting on increased state and federal revenues to maintain municipal services at the present level despite a continuing drop in local property tax revenue, according to Director of Finance Joseph Christoffel.

The city's proposed budget of $7,568,862 for 1977-78 is $1,027 million higher than the current budget.

Christoffel said last night that increased state and federal funds are anticipated to more than offset a drop in property tax revenue.

He commented after a public hearing on the budget during the regular city commission meeting. No comments were made by citizens on the budget. The commission is scheduled to adopt the budget at its next meeting Tuesday, July 5, rescheduled from Monday because of the holiday.

Benton Harbor's state equalized valuation (tax base) has dropped annually since 1973 when it stood at $69,948,974. Christoffel after the meeting calculated the city's state equalized valuation to be $57,052,190 for 1976 and $51,958,585 for 1977. Property taxes payable in July for the city and in December for county and schools are based on the 1977 valuation.

Neither the city's valuation nor the 1977 city tax levy were listed in the proposed budget.

Christoffel said the city will levy 28 mills. Included are general operating, 16 mills, permanent public improvements, 2 mills, pension funding, 5 mills, library, 1 mill, sanitation, 3 mills, and urban renewal fund, 1 mill.

The millage levies are the same as last year, except for pension funding. The city normally levies 1 mill for this, but an additional 6 mills in three installments were court ordered to repay money borrowed by the city from the police and firemen's pension funds. Two mills were levied last December. Two each will be levied in July and next December.

The sanitation levy formerly was 2 mills but was increased to 3 last year under a new state law and was included in last summer's tax bills, it was reported.

Anticipated expenditures in the proposed budget include police, $995,491 (up from about $904,125 this year); fire department, $631,405 (up from about $622,284); street lighting, $110,000, (up from about $105,405).

The biggest increase is police-fire pension funding, $362,151, compared to $143,250.

Revenues include state shared revenue, $1,028,409, compared to $916,500 this year, anti-recessionary funds, $110,000 (nine budgeted for the current fiscal year); and personal and real property tax income, $825,532, down from $906,137.

The commission in general business voted to apply through Lt. Tom McCall, head of Berrien's Office of Emergency Preparedness, for a state disaster grant of up to $20,000 to offset $50,612 spent to clear streets and repair broken mains following a blizzard last Jan. 28.

The city entered an agreement with the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for a $1,280,000 grant to finance the third year Community Development program. The federal agency earlier approved the money for Benton Harbor, but a

St. Joe Buying, Selling Land

The St. Joseph city commission last night voted to buy an 8.5 acre strip of land on Radio Island for $72,250. The commission also voted to sell about 3.7

acres on the north bank of the St. Joseph river to Whirlpool Corp. for a total of $43,000.

Both transactions were contingent upon each other as the city is using money from the sale as part of the purchase price for the property on Radio Island.

The Radio Island property is being purchased on a land contract from Richard D. Eastman of Coloma. The property is located on the eastern edge of the island between the St. Joseph river and the Twin Cities sewage treatment plant. The property has about 800 lineal feet of river frontage.

The southern boundary of the property is on an approximate line from Empire avenue, Benton Harbor.

The purchase price is figured at $8,500 an acre.

Under the land contract terms, the city will pay $21,000 down and the balance over a five to 10 year period at five per cent interest.

City Manager Gerald Hepler said there are no plans at present to develop the property. However, he said the land is valuable in that it could be used for expansion of the treatment plant, development of a marina, or some other commercial-industrial facility.

The land sold to Whirlpool is in two parcels adjacent to the firm's St. Joseph division plant.

A 1.5 acre parcel is located on the St. Joseph river turning basin and is being sold for $21,000. It is presently being leased by Whirlpool and is used for truck parking and storage.

Most of the second parcel consists of about a half-mile along Oak street. The parcel covers about 2.2 acres.

It is presently owned by the Penn Central railroad, but the city is in the process of purchasing it for $19,000, according to Hepler. It will be turned over to Whirlpool for $22,000, he said.

In other areas last night, the commission awarded a contract to the Pearson Construction Co., Benton Harbor, to build a concrete restroom facility at Tiscornia park for $64,750. It was the lowest of seven bids which ranged as high as $77,059.

The structure will be paid for with a $28,500 grant from the state Department of Natural Resources, a $10,000 donation from the Tiscornia foundation, and the remainder to come from the city in cash and in-kind services. In-kind services will include labor and equipment, Hepler said.

The commission voted to allocate $10,000 of federal revenue sharing money to the Downtown Development authority. The money is to be used to help pay for a $13,000 design study for a State street improvement project, according to Atty. George Keller, chairman of the DDA. Keller was present last night.

The money is in lieu of $10,000 the DDA had planned on receiving from a $71,000 federal community development grant the city applied for but was turned down.

Keller said he did not understand how some people could oppose the DDA receiving revenue sharing money as downtown improvements would be good for the entire city. Hepler said he had received telephone calls from two people who objected to the use of the funds on grounds it would benefit only downtown businesses.

The commission gave John P. Tiffany, of 2126 US-33 north, Benton township, 30 more days to continue renovating an eight-unit apartment building he owns at 822 Ship street.

Commissioners had previously given Tiffany 90 days to bring the building up to city codes or face having it razed. Last night was the deadline. Carl Conklin, director of building and inspections, said Tiffany was making progress on the needed repairs and should have them completed in 30 days.

Commissioners heard Roy Krugger, of 805 Lake boulevard, and Jerry Reimann, of 1329 Lake, asked if some way could be found to continue parking on Lake boulevard after it is reconstructed. Hepler said the city would see if it was possible.

Under present reconstruction plans, parking would be eliminated in a five-block stretch south of Park street. The city would have had to widen the street by at least two feet to accommodate the parking under federal guidelines for highway money.

The city commission voted at its June 13 meeting to proceed with the $281,000 reconstruction project on Lake, but it agreed not to widen the 30-foot roadway. Residents of the street had protested the proposed widening.

In a related area, the commission last night voted to allow the Lake Bluff Preservation association to close Lake boulevard for a street picnic on Saturday, July 16, from 4:30 to 9 p.m. The street would be closed from Sutherland to Main.

The association has spearheaded the fight against widening the street.

Academic Honors

Michael D. Atkins, the son of Rev. and Mrs. Donald Atkins, 408 East Britain avenue, Benton Harbor, was named to the dean's list for academic achievement during his final semester at Concordia college, Moorhead, Minn. This spring he graduated magna cum laude with a bachelor's degree in public school music, according to the college.

Marina Comments Invited In SJ

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor

The U.S. Corps of Engineers has invited comments and requests for a public hearing in connection with a request of the City of St. Joseph for permission to build a marina on the Morrison channel of the St. Joseph river. Interested persons have 30 days from June 10 — date of the public notice — to submit written views on the project. Objections or views related to state water quality certification should be filed with the Michigan Water Resources commission Lansing, and comments related to all other aspects are to be sent to the District Engineer, Detroit District, Corps of Engineers, P.O. Box 1027, Detroit.

Any person who has an interest which may be adversely affected by the issuance of a permit may request a public hearing.

According to the notice, it is proposed to place about 1,300 lineal feet of riprap protection on a 2 to 1 slope. This slope will be achieved by dressing the existing slope with about 5,700 yards of sand trucked in from an upland source. The city also proposes to construct a 1,300 foot floating walkway about 20 feet from shore and parallel to the shoreline. The walkway will be connected to shore by gangways about every 150 feet. Extending riverward from the walkway will be 78 floating piers, each 30 feet long.

Factors that will be considered in reaching a decision on the permit, the notice said, include: Conservation, economics, aesthetics, general environmental concerns, historic values, fish and wildlife values, flood damage prevention, land use classification, navigation, recreation, water supply, water quality, and, in general, the needs and welfare of the people.

Dial-A-Ride Will Curtail Service

Dial-A-Ride bus service will be discontinued on Saturdays and other changes will be inaugurated, effective July 1, according to Director Wilbert Brown. Saturday service will be ended because of low ridership, not as a result of St. Joseph recent withdrawal from the Dial-A-Ride program, Brown said.

But because of St. Joseph's withdrawal, the Twin Cities Area Transportation Authority, operator of Dial-A-Ride, has established the following plan on a one-month trial basis, according to Brown. Limited service will be offered from Benton Harbor and Benton township to 11 heavily-used destinations in St. Joseph: (1) Memorial hospital; (2) county courthouse; (3) Auto Specialties and Whirlpool on Graves avenue; (4) St. Joseph Holiday Inn; (5) Leoni; (6) IPM; (7) Easter Seal society at 2015 Lakeview; and medical buildings (8) at 1626 Langley; (9) at 2912 South State; (10) at 1901 Niles, and (11) at 820 Lester.

Transportation to these 11 sites will have certain limitations. Persons in Benton Harbor and Benton township who work in St. Joseph are to contact the Dial-A-Ride office to arrange a standing order.

Other riders should allow at least an hour and a half before pickup for any rides to the remaining St. Joseph sites. All riders to St. Joseph will be required to purchase a double fare. The rider will be issued a ticket good for the return trip only.

Second Brother Is Sentenced

The second of two brothers charged in the January stabbing of Benton Harbor street cleaner John Searls was placed on five years probation yesterday in Berrien Circuit court.

Judge Chester J. Byrns imposed the sentence on Bruce E. Alsop, 24, of Lockport, Ill., and assessed $500 fine and costs for attempted larceny from a person.

Alsop's brother, Steve, 19, was sentenced in April to 25 to 50 years in prison for assault with intent to rob while armed. Searls, 61, was stabbed 42 times in the head, chest, and stomach Jan. 1 at his home at 2125 Territorial road, Benton township.

A written confession in Steve Alsop's court file said he did the stabbing while his brother was in a car outside, and Bruce later entered the home and stopped the attack. "I don't think you anticipated what your brother would do," Byrns told Alsop. "You were not the active participant, but you share in the moral and legal responsibility." Searls was not rubbed during the assault, and has since recovered and returned to work.

Barge Fire Is Doused In St. Joe

A pile of wood smoldering on the deck of a barge in the St. Joseph river was extinguished last night by St. Joseph firefighters.

Firemen said they were called to the Ireland & Lester Company dock at 9 p.m. The tender of the Twin Cities Bicentennial bridge reported seeing smoke on the deck of a barge that was tied to the dock on the west side of the river.

The barge was not damaged, according to firemen. Owner of the barge wasn't determined.

Big Bureaucracy County Problem

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

Berrien county commissioners are going to stop "burgeoning bureaucracy" at the county level and continue operating on a balanced budget in spite of increased pressures to do otherwise, according to Nancy Clark, chairman of the board of commissioners.

"We've got a full house in that courthouse and there's not any more room in the parking lot," Mrs. Clark said yesterday. County government is just going to have to become more efficient rather than expand, she said.

Mrs. Clark's remarks were made during the noon meeting of the Twin Cities Rotary club at the Ramada Inn, Benton Harbor.

She said the county has operated on a balanced budget for the past decade and will continue to do so.

The county is now operating on an $11 million annual budget of which about $6 million comes from local property taxes, she said. The rest comes from fees, and state and federal programs.

She said the state is always coming up with new things the county must do, but the state does not provide the money to do it.

As an example, she said one of the largest expenses for the county each year is to provide defense attorneys for indigents. "It seems like every year there is a new crime for which we must provide an attorney," she said.

She said the county is going to build a jail addition for about $5 million, but it will not seek any additional millage to pay for it. Most of the money will come from federal revenue sharing funds over the next three years, she said.

"We're not going to build any more than we can afford," she said.

In another area, Mrs. Clark

said the county needs more good people to volunteer to serve on various county and local boards and commissions.

She said it is not easy to attract good people to county and local government and won't be until there is government can be proud of what they are doing and not have to apologize all the time for what they do.

She said she feels much of the resentment to local government that she encounters is due to ignorance.

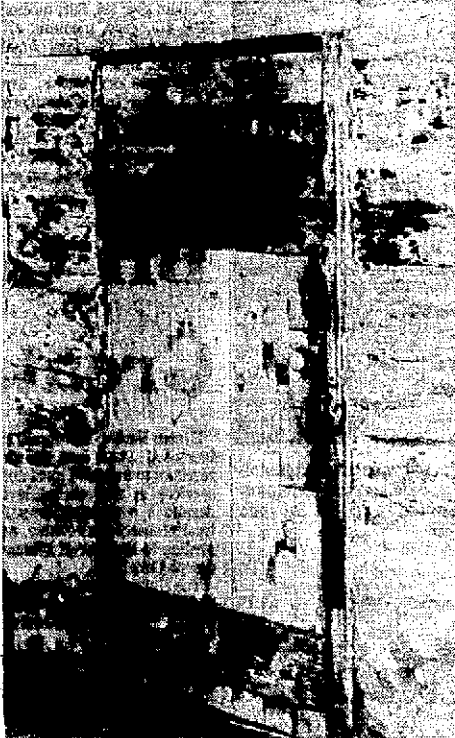

She said she met one man who was "hopping mad" about the county department of social services and criticized her for it. She said she had to explain to the man his criticism was misplaced because the social services department is operated by the state, not the county board which has no control over it.

ORIGINALLY TRAPPER'S CABIN

Log Cabin Still Stands

By SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

Many Midwestern pioneers lived in log cabins in a time when horses provided transportation, when Indians roamed the countryside and when Michigan was still a territory.

Such a log house quietly stands on the Sunrise Fruit Farms property on Hillandale road in Benton township, watching tractors roll by where horses used to tread.

The log house is among many historical buildings in the area being researched by Mrs. Ross (Michele) Spencer, chairman of the Historical Sites Committee of the Fort Miami Heritage Society of Michigan, Inc.

The log house was originally a trapper's cabin, and was located on the southwest corner of land at the junction of Blue Creek and the Paw Paw river, Mrs. Spencer said.

The cabin was moved around the turn of the century from its original location to the Sunrise Fruit Farms by the late James J. Jakway, then the owner of the farm. Jakway at that time also owned the property at the junction of Blue Creek and the Paw Paw River.

According to James J. Culby and his wife, Jean, who now own the Sunrise Fruit Farms, the cabin was dismantled log by log and each was marked with a number to aid in the reassembling of the building on the farm.

According to Culby, who is a grandson of James J. Jakway, the cabin was used to provide housing for families working on the farm until about 30 years ago.

Among those who lived in the cabin was Chief Dodge, a member of the Ojibway tribe.

The main portion of the cabin is 18 by 20 feet. When the cabin was moved to the farm a new cement foundation was made for the building.

The one-room cabin has a loft and after it was moved to the Culby property, a lean-to was added at the back. The cabin also has a roof which extends into a front porch.

Other features of the cabin are hand-hewn log walls, floating wood floor, two chimneys and vertical plank door.

On the exterior of the west wall are weathered shake shingles.

According to Mrs. Culby, the shingles were added after the cabin was moved and were probably to protect the cabin from the west winds. She says she plans to remove the shingles because she was advised by David Mohrhardt that moisture can get under the shingles and will deteriorate the logs.

Mohrhardt, curator of the Berrien County Historical Museum at the original Berrien County Courthouse at Berrien Springs, said the log house was probably built sometime between 1830 and 1850 — probably about 1840.

He said this is determined by the method of construction, such as the notched corners, and its similarity to others of that vintage. It has the floating floor (not attached to the walls), which all cabins of that era had.

Mohrhardt also said the cabin probably did not have the windows it has today when it was built and the front door may have been moved. The log house is small and was probably built for a man and wife or for one individual, he said.

The Sunrise farms have been in the Culby family since 1840, when James J. Culby's great-grandfather, Ebenezer Jakway purchased the property from Theodore Phelps, a land developer who had received a land grant for the property from Martin Van Buren in 1839.

Ebenezer Jakway came to Benton township from New York and was accompanied by his family, including a 16-year-old son, James H. Jakway. The first Jakway holdings were in the Village of Millburg, a stagecoach stop on the old Territorial road between Detroit and Chicago.

Ebenezer Jakway owned the farm until 1851 when James H. Jakway became the owner. James H. Jakway married Mary Pearl, a sister of Warren Pearl, pioneer settler, and Lewis Pearl, a Civil War Major for whom the rural community of Pearl Grange was named.

James H. and Mary Jakway's son, James J. Jakway, who was responsible for moving the cabin, was born May 20, 1862, during the Civil War.

James J. Jakway became the owner of the farm in 1891. He married the former Nettie Closson July 9, 1898.

Their daughter, Clara Jakway, married Frank Culby, and the Culby's son, James J., and his wife, Jean, now own the farm and operate it with their sons, Larry and Michael.

James J. Jakway was a Benton Township Supervisor for many years, a state legislator, was involved in a stage line that used the Territorial road to go to Detroit, was president of the State Farm bureau, and was on the board of trustees for the Michigan State Agricultural college, where he was graduated in 1888.

The home James J. Jakway built for his retirement in 1927-29, is also of historical interest, according to Mrs.

Spencer. The home was built after Jakway's other home on that site burned down.

According to Mrs. Spencer, the home is of colonial revival or classical revival style which began in 1900 and continues to be used today.

A renewed historical interest at the turn of the century resulted in the colonial revival — sometimes called the classical revival style — she said.

Nostalgia for a simpler life also influenced the style. The style is a combination of four earlier American styles, Colonial, Georgian, Federal and Greek Revival. One such home may have elements of several of these styles.

Mrs. Spencer said timber for the house came from Georgia, where Jakway also owned property. The roof is Dutch Colonial with a gothic dormer over the door. The front door is a copy of the Greek Revival door on the Major Lewis Pearl house which used to stand across the street.

The lower story brick work is set into mortar at angles. Each of the inside plastered rooms has a different pattern and the woodwork and staircase are of wild cherry. French doors lead from the living room and engraved in the fireplace marble are the words Jakway had put in for his wife, "For you the fireplace gleams."

The house was vacant for 17 years until Larry Culby, a great-grandson of Jakway, moved into the home.

According to Mrs. Spencer, many children in the area think the house is haunted. She says this is probably because it was vacant and because of rumors connected with the underground slave railroad.

She said there was an underground cement passage from the house to the windmill some distance away at one time, and there is a trap door in the front porch, which adds to the rumor.

Cleaning Shades

A window shade is functional — it adds privacy, filters light, helps regulate temperatures.

Today's styles enhance any room setting, since they are available in a wide range of mix-and-match colors, prints and fabrics. Add to this the fact that most shades and trims are washable.

For example, a vinyl shade can be easily unrolled and sudsed on a table or counter with a sponge wrung out of detergent or soap. Clean one section at a time starting near the roller and as close to the top as possible. Rinse with a clean damp sponge; wipe dry. Continue each section the same way, then do the other side. Rehang the shade to dry; roll up for about 24 hours to iron it out.

LAKESHORE

Lakeshore Community Theatre will present "Once Upon A Mattress," July 1 and 2 and July 8 and 9 at the Lakeshore high school auditorium.

Curtain time is 8 p.m., and tickets will be available at the door.

"Once Upon A Mattress," is a musical comedy of a prince searching for his princess and is a humorous takeoff on the story of the "Princess and the Pea."

The castle of the story is populated by a domineering queen, to be portrayed by Jan Lindenfeld; a wizard, Gordon Formosa, who performs magic tricks; a mule king, Dr. Joseph Wheeler; a travelling minstrel, Curtis Osmun; a sentimental couple, Judy Schnebly and Rob Vogie; a court jester, Joe Huseval; a young prince, Richard Follett, and a princess, Marilyn Hass.

The entire production is under the design and direction of Patricia and Ken Lindahl. Musical accompaniment is by Sue Sherrington and choreography is by Connie Arnt.

VILLAGE PLAYERS

Village Players of Paw Paw will present the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "South Pacific," on Maple Island, Paw Paw, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 1-3.

The players will produce the show on the island with the cooperation of the Paw Paw Village Council and the assistance of the Village Works department and the Paw Paw public schools. In case of inclement weather, the musical will be presented in the Paw Paw Middle school auditorium.

The players will also give additional performances at the Lawton high school auditorium

Friday and Saturday, July 8 and 9.

All performances will start at 8 p.m.

Members of the cast are Ed Borrello of Richland as Emile deBeque; Linda Parrish of Paw Paw, Nellie Forbush; Peggy Rose of Hartford and Janice Wilson of Decatur, sharing the role of Bloody Mary; Tom Shoemaker of Lawrence-Bangor, Lt. Joe Cable; Lester (Chew) Roberts of Kalamazoo, Billis, and Bernard Wickert of Decatur and Jack Rose of Hartford, commanding officers.

Also in the cast are Jeanne Surdy, Renee Goens, Dorothy Christiansen, Dan Deal and Tonda Boothby, Scott Burnham, John Oos, Marlen Boothby, Lisa Lallinger, Ruth Lantz, Carol Smith, Doug Bennett, Kevin Baker and Tim Griffin, all of Paw Paw; Merry Jackson, Tim Keech and Jill Rose, all of Hartford; Cathy Baker, Steve Grimm, Scott Ewing and Dana Eggert, all of Lawton; and Dennis Mills, Bette Piernan and Dick Kraai, all of Kalamazoo.

Tickets are available from members of the cast, at the bridge entrance or on the island. Admission will be $3 for adults and $1.50 for senior citizens and teenagers and 75 cents for those age 12 and under.

Those wishing further information may contact Jan Wilder of Paw Paw.

SISTER LAKES

Producer Art Nemitz announces Sister Lakes Playhouse will launch its 25th season with Terence McNally's comedy, "The Ritz," Wednesday, June 29.

The play will run through July 10. Curtain times are 8:30 p.m., Wednesdays through Saturdays and 7:30 p.m., Sundays. The story relates the humorous problems of Gaetano Proclo, a middle-aged garbage man from Cleveland who runs afoul of his volatile Italian brother-in-law who is threatening to have him killed.

Proclo takes refuge, in disguise, at the Ritz, a bathhouse. It is not long before he realizes that he is totally out of place, as the Ritz, in reality, is a "gay" bathhouse.

Playing the leading role of Proclo is Robert Cooper of Kalamazoo. Costarring is Toysa True, also of Kalamazoo, who portrays "Gooie Gomez," a tacky chanteuse.

Other cast members are Ron Jacoby and Linda Kennedy Nemitz, Kalamazoo; James Slott and Bob Simon, South Bend, Ind.; James Keech, Hartford; Denis Sullivan, Dowagiac; Larry Blevins, Benton Harbor, and Kay Tyler, Niles. Completing the cast are B. Jay Scott and Frank Wiley, both of the playhouse staff.

RED BARN

"Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," opens tonight at the Red Barn Theatre in Saugatuck and will run through July 10.

Curtain time is 8:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday and 7:30 p.m., Sunday. Matinees are given at 2 p.m., Wednesday and Saturday.

SISTER LAKES: "The Ritz," opens Wednesday, June 29, at Sister Lakes Playhouse and will be the first production of the season. Starring are Toysa True and Robert Cooper.

"Jacques Brel" is being produced at the Red Barn by Harriett Leigh Kintner, who appeared as an actress at the Red Barn 18 years ago. She has been producing and touring her own shows in the East with her husband, Richard Kintner, who is serving as musical director for the Saugatuck production.

Bill Olendorf, Chicago artist, owner of the 200 Gallery and one of the owners of the Red Barn, will exhibit his works at the theatre June 28 through July 10.

Another special feature at the Red Barn will be the showing of the movie, "Ceiling Zero," at 7:30 p.m., Monday, July 4. The movie is for all ages.

June Travis will host her award-winning film which stars James Cagney.

Miss Travis was a Hollywood actress during the golden era of movies. After the film, Miss Travis will answer questions about Hollywood and the movies.

June Travis, who is now Mrs. Fred Friedlob, has turned her talents to the stage and has been acting in the Chicago area. She grew up in Allegan and still spends her summers in Michigan. She is one of the new owners of the Red Barn Theatre in Saugatuck.

BARN

A French bedroom farce, "One Night With You, Madame," opens tonight at the Barn Theatre in Augusta and will run through July 10.

Curtain times are 8:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, 6 and 9:30 p.m., Saturday and 7 p.m., Sunday.

"One Night With You, Madame," is set in Paris and has all the elements of the classic bedroom farce. The show is a translation and adaptation by Mawby Green and Ed Feilbert of a French farce by Jean De Létraz.

The play has been produced twice previously at the Barn, once in its world premier in 1963 and again in 1965, both times under the title, "In One Bed..." The authors personally hold all production rights to the show and have not generally released it.

The Barn theatre is located on highway 96, west of Augusta.

DUNES THEATRE

Dunes Summer Theatre located at Michiana Shores, near Michigan City, Ind., is presenting the musical, "My Fair Lady."

The musical will be presented Friday through Sunday, July 1-3 and July 8-10.

Curtain times are 8:15 p.m., Friday and Saturday and 7 p.m., Sunday. All times are Central Daylight Savings Time.

This classic American musical, written by Lerner and Loewe, is about the cockney LAKESHORE: Dr. Joseph Wheeler, left, as the king, gives Richard Follett, Prince Dauntless, advice in this scene from "Once Upon A Mattress," to be presented by the Lakeshore Community Theatre July 1 and 2 and July 8 and 9.

VILLAGE PLAYERS: The musical, "South Pacific," will be presented by the Village Players of Paw Paw on Maple Island, Paw Paw, July 1-3, and in the Lawton high school auditorium, July 8 and 9. Among members of the cast are from left, Lisa Lallinger of Paw Paw, Peggy Rose of Hartford and Tom Shoemaker of Bangor.

flower girl, Eliza Doolittle, who is made over into a wonder of perfect diction and finesse by Professor Henry Higgins, the stuffy but lovable upper-crust Englishman.

Sally Ayn Black is the director.

CANTERBURY

The Canterbury Theatre, Michigan City, Ind., will open its ninth summer season tonight with the musical comedy, "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum."

Curtain time is 8 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday and 2 p.m., Wednesday. All times are Central Daylight Savings Time. Canterbury productions are presented under the auspices of the not-for-profit Festival Players Guild by a resident company.

"Funny Thing" will be on The Canterbury stage for 12 performances through July 9.

Ricardo Gutierrez, artistic director for the summer season, is directing the opening show.

CHERRY COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

Arte Johnson opens the season at Cherry County Playhouse, Traverse City, tonight as Littlechap in the musical, "Stop The World - I Want To Get Off."

The musical will be presented through July 10. Curtain times are 8:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday, 6 and 9:45 p.m., Saturday and 7:30 p.m., Sunday. Matinees are performed Thursdays at 2 p.m.

Johnson's last appearance at the Traverse City playhouse was in 1975 in the production of "The Seven Year Itch."

Johnson became a national celebrity with his characterizations on the "Laugh-In" television program and has appeared in many other television programs.

Mead: End Segregation Of Elderly

Editor's Note: Margaret Mead, noted anthropologist, is the niece of Mrs. William Wawter II of St. Joseph. She spoke to 700 persons in April of 1972, at Lake Michigan college under the sponsorship of Planned Parenthood Association and the Woman's Center at Lake Michigan college.

"You don't find many early or primitive societies that treat old people as badly as the civilized societies do," says Margaret Mead in a Family Circle interview, which showcases the anthropologist's observations on growing old in America.

Miss Mead, herself, began preparing for her present old age of 75 when she was 24. "I went to work at the Museum of Natural History...I saw a doddering old man walking around the corridors, and I asked, 'What is he doing here?' I discovered that at the Museum they keep you until you die. And so I decided to stay right there."

From her post at the Museum, she has surveyed the situation of the elderly in America: "...the poor ones," she comments in the interview, "are stacked away in nursing homes...warehouses for the old." The more affluent move into golden ghettos or go to Florida, but they too are segregated and lonely.

Age-segregation affects everyone, argues the anthropologist. "There are too many children in America who are badly afraid of older people because they never see any." In an already youth-oriented society, the missing associations with older people who enjoy living fosters a fear and dread of aging. What Miss Mead describes as "a sense of continuity and of the possibilities for a full life" may never develop.

Part of the solution, she maintains, is a total physical rebuilding of communities. "Older people need to live within walking distance of shops, friends and family. They need younger people to help with the heavy chores, to shovel the snow...so they can continue to live on their own." Several universities, Miss Mead says, are building alumnae housing on campus as a way of keeping older people active in community life.

The practice of early retirement must end, also, she feels. It is not only wasteful but cruel. Mentioning the harsh adjustment men, in particular, must make, Miss Mead says, "...the men are admirals without a fleet. They don't know what else to do but die." Retired working women, at least, have the continuity of household responsibilities.

It is a sense of interdependence that Miss Mead says America must develop; this is the real issue she feels faces young and old alike.

Win State Trophies

MICHIGAN MEETING: Disabled American Veterans Chapter 126 and Auxiliary of Stevensville were presented several awards during the Michigan convention June 16-19 at Dearborn. The auxiliary received a traveling and permanent trophy for its hospital program, the Star Subscription traveling and permanent trophy, Department Stamp program trophy and a citation for completing all of its programs. Mrs. Olga M. Friske, Watervliet, national fourth junior vice commander, said that after a traveling trophy is won for three consecutive years, a permanent trophy is awarded. She added that eight of the nine years of the auxiliary's existence, it has earned the hospital trophy. Accepting the trophies for the auxiliary at the state meeting were Mrs. Friske, left, and Mrs. Dale (Ada) Wetzel, hospital chairman. (Staff photo)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Ironed Shorts May Pay Off

Dear Ann: When I read the column about ironing the bedsheets and towels a long time ago, I meant to write about a problem that has been bugging me for ages. Sorry I am so late, but here it is.

My husband left a note for me this morning that said, "Unless you are sick, dying, or dead, I expect my shorts to be ironed and in my bureau drawer when I come home tonight. Love, Sam." I have never ironed Sam's shorts in the seven years we've been married and he never complained until now. I decided I wasn't going to spoil him at this late date, so I did not iron his shorts. I cleaned out his closet and shined his shoes instead.

When Sam came home he kissed me and headed for the bedroom to check on the shorts. They were in his bureau drawer, folded neatly, but NOT ironed.

He didn't say anything but I could see he was annoyed.

Please give me your frank opinion, Ann. Should a wife who has never ironed her husband's shorts in the seven years she's been married, start? — Bertha

Dear Bertha: There are all kinds of husbands — some couldn't care less whether their shirts are ironed or not. Others complain if their handkerchiefs aren't lined up just so.

In my opinion, it's not unreasonable for a man to want his shorts ironed. You'll burn up less energy ironing seven pairs of shorts than worrying about whether you should or shouldn't. So my advice is — iron 'em, doll, and I'll bet Sam will stand on his head to please you.

Ann Landers tells the behind-the-scenes story on her survey, "Would You Murry The Same Person," in Family Circle Magazine — on the stands today.

Small Potato

Dear Ann Landers: You are going to decide this one. My boyfriend and I hailed a taxi last night. When we got in he saw a quarter on the floor, picked it up and stuck it in his pocket — didn't think I saw him.

When we got out, I told him I had seen him put the quarter in his pocket, and I thought he should have given it to the driver. He said I was wrong, that it had been dropped by the previous passenger and he had as much right to it as anyone.

His argument, "If I hadn't picked it up, the next person in the cab would have." Please say who is right. — Flummoxed

Dear Flum: The quarter may well have belonged to the previous passenger, but it's a lead-pipe cinch it didn't belong to your boyfriend.

Tell Mr. Great-Heart that he's my candidate for the Small Potato of the Month Award — Cheapskate Division.

Just A Slip

Dear Ann: My wife was married to a bully before she met me. He treated her rotten.

She almost had a nervous breakdown after living with him for five years. Myrtle and I have been married seven months and everything is nifty except for one thing. When she has too many beers, she calls me Fred, which is her ex-husband's name. Does this mean she is still in love with him? — I'm Hank

Dear Hank: Stop worrying. The fact that Myrtle calls you by her ex-husband's name does not mean she is still in love with him. It only means she thinks about him occasionally.

I'll bet Myrtle is so happy to be married to a nice guy like you that her thoughts go something like this: "I'm sure lucky to have a husband like Hank after that rat, Fred."

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage — What To Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Refrigerators are probably one of the most essential appliances in American kitchens and fortunately, there is a wide variety to choose from. Models are available to suit specific lifestyle needs from swinging singles to families with lots of kids.

Since the average family buys a new refrigerator about every 15 years, it is wise to really shop around before making a selection to be sure the one you choose suits your lifestyle today and will still fit your needs in the years to come.

Appliance manufacturers are constantly working to design more convenient and efficient models. For instance, Whirlpool has just introduced a new refrigerator to meet the need for a high quality, stylish unit for consumers who require a big capacity refrigerator-freezer.

It is called the "Serva-Door" refrigerator because it has a door-within-a-door feature that allows quick, easy entry to those "most used" items — without opening the entire refrigerator section.

The user need only open the lower portion of the refrigerator door for access to four deep shelves (three of them adjustable) for condiments, soda, tall bottles, milk and snacks. All those everyday things are right where they are handiest and easiest to see and to reach — but without having to open the main refrigerator door.

An ice and water dispenser mounted on the outside of the freezer door also helps to keep that cold air in where it belongs by letting the user get ice or water automatically without ever opening the door. For energy conscious homemakers who find they must constantly remind youngsters not to stand with the refrigerator door wide open while they are looking for a snack or drink, the Serva-Door feature can certainly be a welcome plus.

Although millions of refrigerators are in use throughout the United States, household refrigeration requires less than one per cent of the nation's total energy output, according to the Association of Home Manufacturers. Many manufacturers are striving to produce products that will even help reduce this low figure.

Whirlpool Corp., for example, offers a special "energy-saving" top-mount refrigerator that utilizes thick urethane foam insulation in both refrigerator cabinet and doors for real economy of operation.

This big 17 cubic-foot no-frost model is rated at 81 KWH per month on the "LO" setting of the power-saving switch. Depending upon the cost of electricity in your area, yearly savings by using the energy-efficient Whirlpool refrigerator can result in approximate savings from $14.40 per year to $18.00 per year.

Here's a chart from Whirlpool that compares one of their standard 17 cubic foot refrigerators to their energy-saving unit.

If your electric cost three cents per KWH, your yearly savings with high efficiency model over standard model will be $14.40; four cents, $18.00; five cents, $21.60; six cents, $25.20; seven cents, $28.80; eight cents, $32.40; nine cents, $36.00; and 10 cents, $39.60.

Refrigerators continue to be an excellent consumer buy, based on a comparison of March 1967 versus March 1977 figures taken from the national average income, consumer price index and appliance industry total units sold.

Today, it takes the average wage earner fewer hours of work to buy a larger, more fully featured refrigerator than the smaller refrigerator the average wage earner was able to purchase in 1967.

Children Still Eligible

Children in grades one through eight are still eligible to sign up for the summer reading program, "The Haunted House Reading Club," in the children's room of the Benton Harbor public library.

Students reading 10 or more books before Aug. 6 will receive an award pin and certificate. Free movies to be shown Friday, July 1, at 4 p.m. include "Bighorn," a trip with John Denver into the wilds of the Rocky mountains, and "Great Toy Robbery," a western, starring Santa Claus, who is ambushed and then saved by the hero.

New books added to the collection are "The You and Me Heritage Tree: Ethnic Crafts for Children," Phyllis and Noel Fiarotta; "Why Am I Different," Norma Simon, and "I Don't Care," Marjorie Shar-mat.

We are accustomed to Italian players making really great plays. We usually think of Belladonna, Garrozzo and Forquet in that connection, but for sheer brilliance we have to award the plum to Oscar Bellantini.

He held the West cards in the European championships played in Dublin some years back. The last thing one would suspect when holding two aces and three kings would be to find himself on lead against a slam, but Bellantini did find himself in that position.

He didn't double and after long thought came up with the only lead to beat six. He played his singleton king of diamonds! After that super brilliant lead the best South could do was to ruff two hearts in dummy, but he still had two hearts to lose.

With any other lead by West, South would bring the slam in since he would be able to ruff three of his hearts. Eventually, he would have to lay down his ace of diamonds and drop the king, but there would be no other play at his disposal and he would make it. He would still have to lose a heart, but that would be the only loser.

Ask the Jacobys

A Tennessee reader wants to know what to play when you have 10 trumps missing the king. You lead toward the ace and second hand plays low.

It is correct to finesse. This wins against K x or K x x in front and loses to king singleton in back. Nothing succeeds against K x in back.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a physical problem that I find very annoying and sometimes painful. I wake up to find one or both of my hands numb. Sometimes the sensation extends up my arm. This tingling sensation, leading to numbness occasionally occurs for no apparent reason. I can be watching TV, driving a car, writing, etc. and my thumb and index finger tingle and then may become numb.

This is an ongoing condition. So far my doctor has dismissed it as "nothing" followed, after months, by an X ray of my neck. He thought there might be arthritis of the neck. This does not seem to be the case either and the tingling goes on for a second year.

In discussing this with a lay person the symptoms reminded her of a condition called "carpal tunnel." I know the carpal involves the wrist bones but I would appreciate more information about the symptoms and treatment.

DEAR READER — That lay person is pretty smart. The carpal tunnel refers to an area at the front of the wrist. All of the tendons (eight to be exact) to bend the fingers pass under a sheath of tough fibrous tissue that encircles the wrist like a watch band. The space or tunnel underneath this band is quite small and bounded at the back by the bones. The median nerve, a main nerve to the hand, also passes through this tunnel.

When the space is too small, for a variety of reasons the median nerve is compressed. This nerve supplies the thumb, the index and middle finger area. Compression of the nerve causes pain and tingling, particularly at night and involving particularly the thumb, index and middle finger. It can cause pain in the forearm as you describe. In long standing cases of severe compression the muscular area at the base of the thumb may atrophy. Use of the hands, during the day, may make the symptoms worse.

In its early stages it is hard to diagnose. And your doctor was correct in looking for a cause in your neck. An obstruction or compression anywhere from the neck to the hand of arteries or nerves can cause similar symptoms.

Before any muscular changes in the hand occur about all the doctor can find is a change in response to pinprick sensation over the thumb and involved fingers. And X rays don't help unless the symptoms are not from carpal tunnel and are really related to disease in the neck area.

In mild cases the condition may be watched and if it doesn't progress it may be left alone. But if there are severe symptoms then surgery may be needed to relieve the pressure on the median nerve.

You might ask for a consultation with a neurologist. He can measure nerve conduction times to see if there is any nerve impairment. Your story certainly sounds like a case of carpal tunnel syndrome.

Pressure on the artery and nerves may also be produced by muscles in the neck and sometimes by the clavicle (collar bone). This is particularly apt to occur in carrying a back pack. The treatment in that case is different.

(Readers who want information on Snake Bites can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 5-10, to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019)

Jail Had No Sprinklers

By CARL MANNING
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE (AP) — The Maury County Jail, scene of the cyanide-laden fire that killed 42 persons, lacked a sprinkler system and had no smoke alarms. The state fire and jail codes didn't require them.

An automatic locking system that could have opened all cells at once was not required. Instead, seven keys were needed to free 56 prisoners trapped inside their cells Sunday afternoon as the toxic fumes traveled through the jail's air ducts.

Thirty-four of those inmates and eight visitors died.

The 13-year-old jail underwent a routine inspection only last Friday and met all necessary state standards, including the proper number of fire extinguishers, state Correction Department officials said.

"This is really one of the better jails in the state," Thomas Woodson, director of the state jail inspection division, said Monday. The current jail inspection report ranks the facility 18th in a field of 102, he said.

Woodson said his agency does not require a sprinkler system for county jails. One reason, he said, is that "you could have the problem of prisoners constantly setting off the sprinkler system."

"All jails are potential fire traps due to the fact that you're keeping people under lock and key. This could happen in any given facility," Woodson said.

At Gov. Ray Blanton's urging, a five-member committee was named by Correction Commissioner C. Murray Henderson to see if a similar disaster could occur at any of the state's 14 adult and juvenile institutions.

Officials said Andrew Zimmer, 16, admitted to setting the fire in his padded cell. Zimmer, a runaway from a Wisconsin home for emotionally disturbed boys, remained in critical condition early today at Vanderbilt Hospital.

Dist. Atty. Gen. Bob Gay said his office filed arson charges against Zimmer on Monday and asked the court for permission to try him as an adult. He said other charges would be filed if warranted.

Fire officials say the plastic padding in the cell where the blaze began gave off toxic cyanide gas. High levels of carbon monoxide also were found in the victims' bodies.

Asked if a sprinkler system would have helped, Fire Marshal Gene Hartsook said. "The loss of life could have been minimized with sprinklers, but I don't know if it would have helped. They are not an absolute cure-all for a fire."

Hartsook said the padding met building requirements at the time the jail was constructed in 1964 to hold 60 prisoners.

"This was acceptable at the time it was installed, although it has become a questionable matter in recent years," Hartsook said.

He said laboratory tests on the material will be conducted this week.

"Officials had no reason to believe this type of material would be dangerous," Hartsook said. "Normally it doesn't ignite like this; I don't know why it did this time."

Gay said Monday that an 18-year-old named David Pittley told state fire investigators that he passed two cigarettes to Zimmer, one of them lit.

Prosecutors Sum Up VA Case

By JUDITH RUSKIN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Two nurses accused of poisoning patients at the Ann Arbor Veterans' hospital didn't want their victims to die, according to federal prosecutors.

But government attorneys on Monday refused to say why the patients had been poisoned. "Murder was not their object," said Asst. U.S. Atty. Richard Yanko during the government's closing summary in U.S. District Court. Yanko did not elaborate on the reason for the poisonings.

"We have not tried to prove it (the motive) and you should not try to find it," he told the jury. "The real motive lies not in the evidence of this case."

The defense was scheduled to present its closing arguments today in the trial of Filipina Narciso, 31, of Ypsilanti, and Leonora Perez, 32, of Ann Arbor.

Miss Narciso is charged with murdering one patient and poisoning four others at the Veterans Administration hospital during the summer of 1973. Mrs. Perez is charged with three poisonings.

Both are charged with conspiracy, and both could get life in prison if convicted.

The government contends the two women injected patients' intravenous apparatus with the powerful muscle-relaxing drug Pavulon, which caused the victims to stop breathing.

The government's view of the case was revealed in Yanko's discussion of testimony about patient Adam Oelberg, the subject of the conspiracy count.

Miss Narciso, he said, poisoned Oelberg, but she was also the person who called for emergency resuscitation. Oelberg recovered.

"It was almost as if she wanted to cause a problem one minute and detect it the next," Yanko said.

"That explains the entire, mad, senseless scheme — she did not want him to die, she did not start out to kill," he added.

Referring to all eight poisonings in the government's case, the prosecutor said, "On each occasion there was a safety valve, a check, a precaution, a means to prevent death, and usually the precautions worked."

In most cases, the breathing failures occurred at times when another nurse or a doctor was likely to notice the patient was in trouble, Yanko said. Most of the respiratory arrests occurred in the intensive care unit (ICU), where the two nurses worked.

Yanko said if the nurses had intended to kill people, they would not have chosen the ICU, where the staff was trained to deal quickly with medical emergencies. He said such a plan was "like trying to drown someone in a pool surrounded by life guards."

During the course of the trial, prosecution questions to defense witnesses seemed to suggest that revenge for overwork was the motive, Yanko said during his closing arguments the understaffing condition was "magnified" by the rash of breathing failures.

But he said the understaffing theme provided an insight into the case and was not a motive. "We do not contend understaffing is a motive," Yanko said.

LIFE TERM: Al Lewis, 47, convicted of shooting his estranged wife to death in front of 26 children in her classroom in Detroit, was sentenced Monday to life imprisonment at hard labor, with a recommendation of no parole. Judge Patricia J. Boyle called it "the most wicked, malicious and cruel act I've ever seen." (AP Wirephoto)

War Re-Enactment Plans Stir Protest

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — A Texas group's plan to re-enact three World War II battles at an Air Force base has sparked a fight over whether the event would be recreating history or glorifying war.

"They're presenting this as some kind of entertainment and we object to war being treated as entertainment," said Sister Rose Slietz, a member of the Catholic Worker House which opposes the show.

The Confederate Air Force group, made up of volunteer pilots and mechanics, operates a flying museum in Harlingen, Tex., and is dedicated to keeping World War II planes in the air.

The group is the same one that angered the Japanese government with a reenactment of the bombing of Hiroshima last October.

It proposes to reenact the battles of Pearl Harbor, D-Day and Coral Sea at Selfridge Air Force base during the annual air show Saturday and Sunday in this city northeast of Detroit.

"We are appalled that such a show can even be considered," said Judy Cumber of the Catholic Worker House. "Isn't this the kind of event which prepares our children to think of the fireworks and excitement of war without giving any thought to the suffering of those who die and those who are left?"

Deputy Base Commander Col. Richard Wiles met with those who opposed the show, but said the meeting will go on as planned. It will include a recreation of the landing on D-Day, to take place on the shore of Lake St. Clair.

House Tackles Hot Potato --A $12,900 Cut In Pay

By EDMOND L. BRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is reaching for one of the hottest potatoes on its legislative menu — a vote on whether to repeal the $12,900 pay raise members of Congress began receiving March 1.

The key vote, which may come Wednesday, should be extremely close.

The House planned a relatively minor vote today on waiving a smaller pay raise that hasn't yet taken effect. The waiver was considered sure to be approved.

The major test will be on an amendment to strike from the legislative appropriation bill funds for the higher salary congressmen have been getting for more than three months.

The Democratic leadership is trying to muster the votes to defeat that amendment, something sources said they have not yet succeeded at.

If the amendment survives the rest of the legislative process, the annual pay of representatives and senators would be cut from $57,500 to $44,600.

And there would be similar reductions in the salaries of federal judges and other high officials, including the vice president, Cabinet members and top ranking federal employees.

Part of the leadership strategy is to ensure that any pay cut would apply to all these groups, not just members of Congress. Theoretically, that would make a cutback harder to justify.

The rules committee is being counted on to take care of this parliamentary requirement.

Whatever action the House takes is subject, however, to Senate review.

If House members pass the appropriations bill minus the funds to cover the raises during the next fiscal year, the Senate would not have to go along. Senators could vote to put the money for their raises back into the bill. That would send the bill to a conference committee made up of representatives from both chambers, whose job would be to reach a compromise agreeable to both the House and Senate.

Proponents of the pay increase could argue that the House should not let itself be dealt an inferior status.

Nazi March Chief Snubs Reports On Jewish Father

By MARC WILSON
Associated Press Writer
SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — Frank Collin, who plans to lead a July 4th Nazi march through this heavily Jewish community, enjoys publicity, but not stories tracing his background to a Jewish father who survived a Nazi death camp in World War II.

Collin calls the writers of the stories, one of them Pulitzer Prize winner Mike Royko of the Chicago Daily News, "gutter journalists."

"If the Police Gazette said something about me, I wouldn't respond, so why should I respond to gossip from people who lower themselves to using gutter sources for their stories?" Collin said in response to the stories.

Royko and Jack Mabley of the Chicago Tribune published columns on Monday and over the weekend tracing Collin's background.

Royko and Mabley said Collin's father, Max Simon Cohn, came to Chicago after surviving the Dachau concentration camp, changed his name and became a successful businessman on Chicago's south side.

The younger Collin was arrested during a Nazi demonstration in August 1968, and police records show that his address then was the same as Max Simon Collin of Olympia Fields, a Chicago suburb. The elder Collin could not be reached for comment.

In 1970, the American Nazi party discovered Collin's background and kicked him out of the party, Mabley and Royko said.

Last fall Collin helped organize the National Socialist

Congress because, he said, the American Nazi party is "treasonous to the cause of Hitler's principles."

Collin, 32, the national coordinator of the NSC, has called for a national convention this weekend in Chicago. He said "up to 100" members of the NSC from eight states plan to march Monday in Skokie, if legal disputes are settled in time.

About 7,000 Jews who survived Nazi concentration camps reside in this suburb of 69,000 north of Chicago.

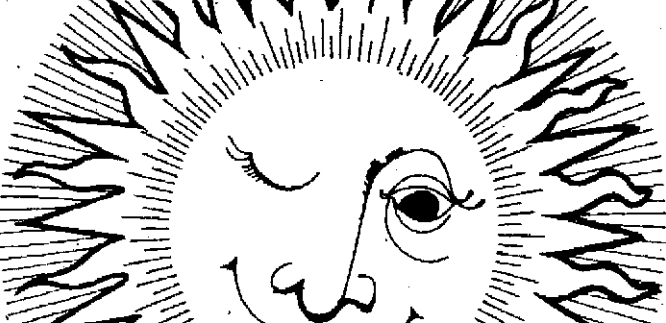

Rabbi Meir Kahane, founder of the Jewish Defense League, has promised to bring supporters to Skokie. "There will be no Nazi march in Skokie. We intend to bloody the Nazis should they try. I am not predicting violence. I am promising violence," Kahane said.

Carter Seeks Standby Gas Rationing

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is developing a standby program that would allow the President to impose gasoline rationing on a moment's notice.

The project was confirmed Monday by James Bishop, an aide to presidential energy adviser James Schlesinger. The aide said President Carter had ordered a review of possible rationing plans and that the President wants a program that would give him broad rationing powers.

Schlesinger disclosed the administration intent in a recorded interview with Rep. Jim Cuy Tucker, D-Ark. The interview, intended for Tucker's constituents, has not been broadcast yet.

In the interview, Schlesinger said the administration in the months ahead will begin work on a rationing program "that we can impose immediately and dramatically curtail our own use of gas if the circumstances require, if we have a supply interruption."

Bishop said the rationing move is not in retaliation for congressional mauling of the President's energy plans, which sought to reduce gasoline consumption through a standby gasoline tax and through special levies on automobiles that get poor gasoline mileage.

In unveiling his national energy plan, Carter warned that if consumption could not be reduced by other means the administration would consider developing a rationing plan.

Bishop said there was dissatisfaction with ration plans drafted for Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford after the 1973 oil embargo, and in any event, they were Republican, not Democratic plans.

To underline the importance of gasoline conservation, Bishop said Americans this summer will use 27 billion gallons of gasoline in the vacation season.

"That's twice the amount needed to produce all of America's crops for the entire year," he said, "and the equivalent of all the energy used by American forces in 1944."

Sources within the Federal Energy Administration said the sum of previous rationing moves is that the president currently does not have standby gasoline rationing authority.

During the Arab oil embargo, William Simon, then head of the old Federal Energy Office, developed a rough plan that cited defense emergency laws for authority. His effort led to the printing of gasoline ration coupons. It eventually took four months to print a three-month supply of coupons at a cost of about $10 million. These coupons are still in federal storage.

With the embargo crisis over, interest waned. Congress ordered the Ford administration to draft a rationing plan, saying the plan and authority to impose rationing would have to be approved by Congress.

Ford's plan was sent to Congress on the last day of his

Court Lifts Lawyer Ad Ban

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharply divided Supreme Court Monday gave lawyers the right to advertise their fees for routine services such as drawing up wills and handling uncontested divorces.

The court ruled 5 to 4 that state rules prohibiting lawyers from advertising such fees violate the First Amendment's guarantee of free speech.

The decision overturned one of the legal profession's most cherished traditions, that lawyers do not commercialize their work by advertising in newspapers and elsewhere.

"Today's decision will effect profound changes in the practice of law," Justice Lewis F. Powell wrote in a dissenting opinion.

in hiring. At the same time, the court upheld an Alabama regulation effectively prohibiting women from serving in "contact" jobs at the state's maximum security prisons.

The Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal charging S.S. Kresge Co. with violating antitrust laws in pricing between discount stores and supermarkets under the name K Mart.

The court let stand a decision by the 3rd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that Kresge is not guilty of antitrust violations even though it prohibits price competition between K Mart and K Mart Food outlets. K Mart operates stores in Michigan.

READY TO ADVERTISE: Law partners Van O'Steen (left) and John R. Bates won their case Monday when U.S. Supreme Court upheld their right to advertise legal services and fees in Phoenix, Ariz. newspapers. Both were disciplined by Arizona state bar for their action and lost appeal to Arizona Supreme Court. Both said they will resume ads now. (AP Wirephoto)

But Justice Harry A. Blackmun, writing for the majority, stressed that the ruling allows lawyers to advertise only in a narrow area and that the court would wait until another day to decide whether a broader range of legal ads also would have First Amendment protection.

The majority described its decision as a boon for consumers, arguing that it serves the purpose to deny individuals the information they might gain from lawyers' ads.

The court overturned the Arizona Supreme Court's rule prohibiting lawyers from advertising and providing disciplinary measures for violations.

Most other states enforce similar bans, and the American Bar Association's ethical standards do not permit lawyers to advertise their fees.

However, the ABA recently modified its rules to allow lawyers to list their names and legal specialties in the classified section of a telephone directory.

In other action, with the court moving toward the close of its current term, the justices:

—Turned down John Mitchell and H.R. Haldeman's appeal for the court to hear arguments aimed at overturning their Watergate cover-up convictions. Mitchell and Haldeman began serving their prison terms last week.

—Upheld a ruling which said a white employee can sue an employer for discrimination against blacks and other racial minorities because the bias deprives the white worker of interracial associations.

—Agreed to review the constitutionality of death penalty laws in Ohio, where 70 persons are on death row.

—Struck down Alabama regulations imposing height and weight standards for prison guards as violating federal laws that prohibit sex discrimination

Tree Blaze Gets Best Of Firemen

Benton township firemen spent an hour and used 500 gallons of water Monday evening in an unsuccessful effort to put out a fire inside an old tree at Millburg.

"I think it's still burning today," 14-year-old William Klemm said of the fire that worked its way up through the decayed center of a tall tree in a woods at the south end of Third Street.

Klemm said the fire was apparently set by children in a hollow section five feet in diameter at the base of the tree. Firemen extinguished the blaze at the base of the tree, but couldn't get to the fire that burned about 50 feet above the ground inside the tree.

Klemm said the firemen would have cut down the tree last night, "but I think it's too big for us to handle." The owner of the woods, Clara Hutchinson, will be contacted today and asked to have the tree cut down, he added. Firemen received the call at 7:13 p.m.

Putting your hard-earned cash to work earning interest — and keeping it safe — are ICB's prime responsibilities. But making sure all your available funds "are working" for you in this manner, is your responsibility. That's why you should consult with your action banker at ICB.

Here are some guidelines to help you plan:

■ ICB's 5% Passbook Savings Account is the way to put your dollars to work taking care of unexpected bills and emergencies. Your money earns interest from day of deposit to day of withdrawal. Draw it out when you need it...put it back to work when you don't.

■ ICB's 5½% Golden Key 90-Day Account is the way to put your dollars to work to provide for future, anticipated needs...a new car, a boat, furniture, appliances or other durable purchases. And with a $200 balance, it entitles you to free checking privileges with your personal checking account. (Withdrawals before the end of the calendar quarter are subject to a substantial interest penalty.)

■ ICB's Certificates of Deposit guarantee you from 6% to 7½% interest, compounded annually when left to maturity, regardless of how much interest rates may decline during the period. Maturity dates range from one year at 6% to 4 years at 7½%. (Withdrawals prior to maturity are subject to a substantial interest penalty.)

■ ICB's Investment Certificates, with a maturity of 6 years, earn you the highest rate of interest allowed by law...7½% interest compounded annually when left to maturity. (Withdrawals prior to maturity are subject to a substantial interest penalty.)

Coloma School Board Changes Members' Pay

COLOMA — The Coloma school board last night voted to establish board pay for each member at $15 per meeting, effective with the start of the new fiscal year, July 1.

Approval of the new pay schedule was in keeping with a new law which went into effect Jan. 1. Previously, board members were paid $100 per year.

Marshall Badt, school board president, said the per meeting pay does not apply for committee meetings or contract talks.

According to a report of board meetings over the past three years, the board met 19 times in 1974-75; 23 times in 1975-76 and 21 times during 1976-77, for regular or special meetings.

Ronald Clark, assistant school superintendent, told board members if the existing unemployment compensation legislation is not altered, the school would be forced to pay approximately $45,000 to non-certified school employees. The legislation would make the non-certified employees eligible for benefits during vacations and holidays.

In other areas, the board awarded Consumers Asphalt and Concrete Co., Benton Harbor, the contract for resurfacing and stripping the high school tennis courts. The firm submitted the low bid of $3,523 for the work.

The board awarded All Phase Electric Supply Co., Benton Harbor, the contract for replacing 32 light fixtures for the Alwood gym and all-purpose room in the middle school with 400 watt high pressure lighting. The firm submitted a bid of $4,416 for the work.

BOEING WIDOW DIES
FALL CITY, Wash. (AP) — Mrs. W.E. Boeing, widow of the founder of The Boeing Co., died at 86, her family members reported Sunday.

Another bidder, L.R. Klose Electric Co., Kalamazoo, bid $4,015 for the fixtures, but the board determined the firm failed to follow bid specifications and rejected its bid. The board indicated the firm did not bid entirely on 400 watt fixtures.

The board approved raising the book deposit requirement for junior and senior high students from $10 to $15 for the 1977-78 school year. The increase was approved to offset increased costs for replacing damaged books and books not returned by students.

The board approved the replacement of 31 broken windows in the Alwood gym, requested by Clark.

25-YEAR EMPLOYEES CITED: St. Joseph Mayor Franklin Smith, center, presented watches in honor of 25 years service with city to two employees last night. Receiving watches are Mrs. Ellen Heyn, deputy clerk in finance department, and Ora Williams, public works department employee. (Staff photo)

Coloma Youngsters Still Waiting For First Youth Bureau Checks

COLOMA — James Noack, Coloma city public works coordinator, told the Coloma city commission last night that five youngsters working for the city since June 13 are still waiting their first pay from the Berrien county Youth Service Bureau.

According to Noack, the youngsters, all from disadvantaged families, were to have been paid June 24, but the checks did not arrive. He said an initial five were wrong and were returned.

"I'm pleased with their work," said Noack, "and I've been attempting to correct the problem with officials of the bureau, but the checks are still forthcoming."

Noack said the youngsters, aged 14-15, started work three days before the end of a pay period, June 16, but when checks arrived for that time they were in error and returned. The youths' work includes clearing brush, mowing tall grass, and general clean-up work.

In other areas, Commissioner William Weybright reported the police committee decided 15 parking tickets issued during the Coloma high school commencement along West street must be paid.

According to Weybright, "some of the recipients of the parking tickets are habitual parking violators."

The commission approved applying for a reimbursement of $8,557 in city funds spent during the severe snow storm between Jan. 26 and Feb. 9, from the state.

The commission approved pay hikes for city employees, effective during the first pay period in July.

Receiving hikes, with former hourly rates in parentheses were: Kenneth Unruh, police chief, ($4.95) $5.45; Jerry Crockett, sergeant, ($4.90) $5.40; Edward Dill, patrolman, ($4.75) $5.25. Part-time patrolman, starting wage, $8.70, unchanged; after six months, $3.95 ($3.80) after one year, $4.35 ($4).

Other hikes, Betty Brady, deputy clerk, ($3.25) $3.75. City public works employees received hikes ranging from $5 to $10 cents per hour.

Public Works Coordinator Noack's weekly salary was increased from $235 to $250.

The commission authorized City Clerk Mrs. Patricia Beezley to write the Michigan Tax Tribunal, requesting a delay in establishing a hearing on a tax assessment appeal until the city has a city assessor.

The appeal was filed by Larry Hoones, Timberbrook Terrace subdivision.

A request for a raffle by John Bertuca for the CanAm games for August was referred to the Coloma Gladious festival committee, with the commission recommendation the request be disallowed.

The commission approved allowing the Coloma Jayettes to hold an ice cream social for senior citizens in Baker park, July 17, from 1 to 4 p.m.

The commission was informed by Mrs. Beezley, it has until Nov. 11 to adopt an electrical code for the city and to appoint an electrical inspector.

Coloma Twp. Planners Reject Zoning Request

COLOMA — The Coloma township planning commission last night rejected a rezoning request needed to clear the way for a proposed $840,000 apartment development off Angling road in the township.

Commission action followed a hearing where a petition opposing the rezoning was submitted. The petition was signed by 10 people living near the site of the 46-unit plan.

Ken Fowler, the developer, head of KCF Properties, Lansing, sought to have the 7.9 acre tract rezoned from commercial to multi-family use for construction of either apartment buildings for individuals or senior citizens.

Fowler was not present at the commission meeting when the decision was rendered. Instead, he was at the Coloma city commission, seeking approval from city officials for city water and sewer services to the proposed site located on the east side of Angling road, south of Ryno road.

City officials told Fowler they would extend city services to the site only if the property were annexed to the city.

Fowler indicated he would consider their suggestion adding he would not build if city water and sewer facilities were unavailable.

Coloma Mayor Glenn Randall said Fowler would have to get approval from the Coloma township board to annex the parcel of property before coming back to the city.

According to Randall, if Fowler decides to annex to the city, the property would be zoned multi-family in the annexation petition.

City officials said water and sewer lines are located some 230 feet from the property line of the 7.9 acre tract.

In other planning commission action, plans for a nine-lot subdivision off Paw Paw Lake road were approved.

The subdivision, "Country View Manor" will be located in what had been Strong's resort. The commission discussed adoption of minimum size requirements for residential houses, but tabled action until its July 25 meeting.

A rezoning request for the Jeff Godlew property, Ryno road, from agricultural to commercial for the purpose of operating a body shop was withdrawn by Godlew.

Unpaved Pipestone Roads Are Treated

EAU CLAIRE — The Pipestone township board last night was told by Supervisor Hazen Harner, Jr., that unpaved roads in the township have been treated with dust control spray. Harner said the project cost $1,732 and the work was done by the Berrien county road commission.

In other areas, the board approved the purchase of a new lawnmower for cemetery use for $82 from K-Mart. The board approved repairs to three other mowers also.

Delinquent taxes totaling $1,892.33 for 1975 were received. The township is to keep $31.28, while the rest, $1,861.05, was stated for the Eau Claire school district.

Building Inspector Herbert Hasse reported that four building permits covering an estimated $7,295 in construction work were issued in June.

The permits went to Charles Hayden, Pipestone road, Eau Claire, for a 10 by 20-foot addition to a house; $300; Tailored Building Systems, Benton Harbor, for Robert Keene, Sinclair road, Eau Claire, for a 24 by 32-foot garage, $3,600; Irving Clark, Watson road, Eau Claire, for a 24 by 24-foot garage, $2,695; and Louis Waldrop, route 1, Old Pipestone road, Eau Claire, for a 12 by 16-foot addition to a garage, $700.

It's NEWS TODAY In MICHIGAN

Lower PBB Limit 'Required'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state constitution requires lawmakers to pass a bill to slash the amount of PBB allowed in Michigan food, according to the attorney general. But Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley's opinion on Monday did not predict the state's success in recovering money it would pay farmers whose herds might be destroyed under the legislation. He was referring to a Housepassed bill now before the Senate that drastically lowers the amount of PBB (polybrominated biphenyl) allowed in Michigan food. The bill calls for testing thousands more livestock, destroying animals that fall above the lowered PBB levels, and reimbursing farmers for their losses. The total cost is estimated at up to $45 million over five years. The bill also requires Kelley's office to sue Michigan Chemical Co. and Farm Bureau Services — companies responsible for the PBB disaster — to recover at least the cost of testing the animals.

Bell Plans Energy Cuts

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Plans to spend $5 million to reduce energy consumption by 6 per cent over the next five years were announced Monday by Michigan Bell Telephone Co. A four-man team of Bell employees will go through each company building around the state finding ways to conserve energy. "After each building is gone over with a fine-tooth comb, an energy conservation timetable will be drawn up and changes put into effect," said Richard Christie, Bell's energy coordinator. Bell hopes to reduce energy consumption 1.2 per cent annually. Without the changes, most of them in building design, the company's energy consumption would increase about 7.4 per cent each year, Christie said. The conservation program will not affect the company's planned growth rate or telephone installation, he added. Energy demands are expected to cost Bell $22 million in 1977.

Jail Inmates Rowdy

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Prisoners created a brief disturbance at the Bay County Jail Monday night, breaking some pipes and light bulbs the facility, according to the sheriff's department. A spokesman said no hostages were taken and no injuries were reported. "They broke a light bulb and damaged a pipe, but the total damage will be less than a couple of hundred dollars," he said. The disturbance was confined to a couple of cells on the first floor and lasted about an hour, police said.

Plane, 4 Bodies Found

SMITH'S CREEK, Mich. (AP) — National Traffic and Safety Board officials joined the Federal Aviation Administration today at the scene of a single-engine plane crash that left four persons dead. Officials today said two of the victims were from Marysville, Mich., and had a winter residence in Florida. The other couple was from Jackson, Mich. Positive identification of the victims was expected later today, authorities said. The Mooney Executive II plane, missing for two days, was found Monday night in a wooded area about two miles south of the St. Clair County Airport. FAA official Al Hunt declined comment on the cause of the crash after a preliminary probe early today. Hunt said details would be released after a joint study with NTSB officials.

Two Carferries To Run

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A federal judge has agreed to allow the Chessie System to keep only two carferries crossing Lake Michigan through July 25. U.S. District Court Judge Wendell Miles said Monday the railroad has shown by operating two ferries during June that it can provide the public with transportation. Because of heavier demand during August, Miles said, he will hold another hearing July 20 for the railroad to justify using just two carferries through August. Chessie System carferries sail between Ludington and the Wisconsin ports of Milwaukee, Manitowoc and Kaukauna.

Automatic Gas Tax Hike Eyed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state gasoline tax would rise automatically with the price of gasoline under a plan that has been released by House Republicans. GOP lawmakers on Monday offered the plan as a substitute for Gov. William Milliken's proposed two-cent-a-gallon transportation tax hike. Their substitute would make the tax a percentage of the price rather than a portion of each gallon sold. Hiking the consumption-based tax would hit hard at senior citizens and others living on a fixed income, said Rep. Michael Conlin, speaking for the GOP members. The Jackson Republican added that the tax would be eroded in three to five years by inflation. Conlin said the Republican proposal would bring about maximum efficiency and an equitable method for state funding of highways and transportation. The current state gasoline tax is nine cents per gallon, or 18 per cent of the average base price of a gallon of unleaded gasoline.

He'd Trim Welfare Rolls

LANSING (AP) — A state legislator has promised to introduce a bill to end welfare payments to people on strike and to those who voluntarily quit or are fired. Rep. John Mowat, R-Adrian, said Monday he plans to introduce the bill because taxpayers are subsidizing strikes at the expense of employers. Similar legislation has been offered unsuccessfully in the past. Strikers currently can collect welfare under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children-Unemployed Fathers program. Half of the program is federally funded. Mowat said a recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling which permits states to decide when a father is unemployed prompted him to draft the legislation.

House Spurns Patrol Plan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state House has unanimously rejected a Senate plan for Detroit freeway patrols and sent the measure to a special House-Senate committee to iron out differences. The action means six lawmakers will probably decide whether state troopers will continue to patrol Detroit freeways and whether the state will subsidize nine county police agencies. The freeway issue is contained in the state police budget bill, which along with spending bills for several other state departments were overwhelmingly rejected Monday and sent to House-Senate committees. The House originally voted to pull troopers out of Detroit and require them to contract with Wayne County sheriff's deputies to patrol Detroit freeways. The Senate rejected that plan, however. In favor of a compromise that would leave state police in Detroit but kill Gov. William Milliken's plan to expand troopers to freeways in other cities.

Hundreds To Do Cleanups

LANSING (AP) — Nearly 700 young men and women will begin cleaning up the state's highways under the largest summer drive ever organized in Michigan, the highway commission said Monday. About 125 supervisors will direct the program funded by $800,000 in state money. This is nearly three times the amount spent last year. The disadvantaged 16- and 17-year-olds to be assigned primarily to heavily traveled highways and freeways were hired from 80 communities around the state.

Lottery Club Trying Again

LANSING (AP) — The first lottery club to win big in the weekly "Michigan" televised lottery show returns Thursday to try to add to its $105,000 in winnings. Charles F. Muma, 54, of Flint, president of the A.C. Six Lottery Club, will defend the club's winnings against six challengers. They are: Robert Blasius, 55, of Highland Park; David Chavez, 35, Detroit; Joyce Gennara, 48, of Hermansville; Thomas Leivo, 28, Auburn; Robert Luechett, 50, and Vernon Miller, 58, both of Plymouth.

Pollution Penalty Rapped

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Environmental Review Board leveled a blast Monday at state officials who settled a serious pollution case against the Michigan Chemical Co. for just $20,000. The state "failed to protect the public trust" in accepting $20,000 from Michigan Chemical as full payment for years of damage caused by discharge of PBBs and other pollutants along the Pine River, the review board said Monday. The resolution was approved 9-6 after heated debate. The board's criticism of the out-of-court settlement was disturbing to some state officials. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and Howard Tanner, director of the Department of Natural Resources, said it could undermine future efforts to penalize polluters and jeopardize large settlements being negotiated. The DNR and Kelley's office negotiated the settlement, and it was approved by the state Water Resources Commission. Michigan Chemical was to reduce discharges gradually from its St. Louis, Mich., plant until July 1978, when the firm will close, says the 1976 agreement. In return, the state guaranteed it would not sue the company for any chemical damage to Michigan waterways until it leaves the state.

Uncle Sam Makes Fireworks Quieter

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fireworks stands are springing up like dandelions along America's roadsides as the country prepares to blast and sparkle its way through another Fourth of July.

But you'll get a little less bang out of your pyrotechnics this year because of the controversial regulations the federal government put into effect last winter. After a 1974 move to ban fireworks was roundly criticized, the Consumer Products Safety Commission settled last winter for establishing restrictions on the power of fireworks sold to consumers.

Firecrackers, for example, are now limited to 50 milligrams of powder, the charge found in the small "ladyfingers" often sold in strings. The previous limit had been 130 milligrams.

Other provisions govern the explosives' fuses, labeling, and contents.

The commission's regulation applies to fireworks sold across state lines.

Sixteen states ban fireworks sales entirely. These are Arizona, Connecticut, Delaware, Georgia, Illinois, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Rhode Island, Vermont and West Virginia.

Illinoisan Says 2 Kidnaped Him

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — An Oak Lawn, Ill., man reported he was abducted at knife-point in Chicago yesterday and forced to drive two men to Paw Paw, according to Paw Paw police. George Fadel, Paw Paw police chief, said Frank Bubeck, 42, told him the men forced their way into his car about 7 a.m. Chicago time while he was on his way to work. Bubeck said he drove the pair to Paw Paw where he was told by them they would be picked up by another person. Fadel said the men fled on foot after being dropped off near the St. Julian Winery about 11:45 a.m. Police searched the area but found no one, Fadel said. Both suspects were described as white, one in his early 20's about 6-1, 180 pounds with a beard; and the other in his early 30's, 5-8, 160 pounds and slightly bald.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Burglars Leave House Vandalized

Goods with a total value of $2,503 were reported stolen from the Cedric Culppeper residence, 1271 Pavone, by burglars who ransacked the entire house, Benton Harbor police reported Monday.

Police said the burglary occurred sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Police said thieves apparently parked a car by a bedroom window and loaded the car with three televisions, three lamps, a tape recorder, vacuum cleaner and other items and drove away.

Two couches, a chair and a large picture were slashed by a knife and other furniture was thrown about during the burglary.

Other thefts reported to Benton Harbor police:

—Four chrome magnesium wheels with four radial tires valued at a total of $800 from a 1977 Buick parked at Schroeder Buick, 204 East Main street, between June 22 and 23.

—A watch, radio and $10 cash from the home of Archie Lynch, 884 Lavette.

Berrien sheriff's officers reported the following thefts Monday:

—Tools valued at $300 from a shed owned by Walter Downer, on North Branch road, Bainbridge township.

—An air compressor, air tanks and 50 feet of air hose valued at a total of $250 from a barn owned by Harvie Laitrell, Route 2, Buchanan.

—Scaffolding valued at $240 owned by Erdmen Linke, East road, Bridgman, from a house under construction on Jericho road, Lake township.

—Cigars, cigarettes and candy valued at $20 plus $30 change from the Edgewood Court restaurant, 4020 Red Arrow highway, Lincoln township.

Benton township police reported a tape deck valued at $126 was stolen from the home of Arrachael Smith, 1248 Blossom lane, early today.

Gerald Stocum, 1790 Smyers drive, told Benton township police a bird bath valued at $65 was stolen from his yard over the weekend.

William Curry, 21, whose address was listed as the Milner hotel, East Main street, Benton Harbor, told Benton Harbor police two men grabbed his watch and ran while he was walking on Pipestone near Washington street at 11:15 p.m. Sunday, officers reported.

Police said Curry told them one of the two men started to take his wallet but stopped when Curry told him there was "nothing in it."

A 14-year-old boy was arrested by Benton township police on a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property over $180 after a bicycle reported stolen Monday was recovered later that day by police, Patrolman Kim Fowler reported.

Fowler said the boy was arrested at 9:15 p.m. Monday after a bicycle valued at $180, reported stolen from the home of Brian McKinley, 902 Waukonda, was recovered in the possession of a third person, who told police he had bought it from a boy for $13.

A shot believed fired from a .22 caliber gun penetrated a sliding glass door, a drape and the screen of a television set at the Louis Hoffman residence, 1648 Sun Prairie drive, Monday afternoon, St. Joseph township police reported.

Officers said no one was home when the shot was apparently fired into the house between 1 and 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Windshields of two autos parked in a lot at Ashley Ford, 1074 East Napier avenue, were reported smashed by vandals with a blunt object Monday, Benton township police said. Officers said the damage was estimated at $67.

Mark Deckert, 1014 Harrison avenue, St. Joseph, told Berrien sheriff's officers Monday a hole was kicked in a wall of a house under construction on St. Joe Circle, Lincoln township

Buchanan Wants Bridge Included In Grant Bid

BUCHANAN — Mayor Richard Gault last night sent a letter to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development requesting the Oak street-Mill Race bridge replacement project be included in Buchanan's application for community development funding for 1977-78.

The mayor's letter was sent on recommendation of the city commission at its meeting last night.

The letter stated the bridge provides vital service to residents in the target area of the application, even though it lies outside the target area. The letter said the bridge would benefit a greater number of people in that area than improvement of Berrien street, suggested by HUD as an alternate project.

The letter also stated no local funds are available for such a project.

In April, the city commission approved forwarding its final application for a $200,000 HUD federal community development grant. If approved, about $100,000 of the grant would be used to replace three existing bridges, two on Oak street and one on Alexander street.

The remaining $100,000 would be used for rehabilitation of substantial housing in the city.

Since then, HUD recommended that replacement of the Oak street-Mill Race bridge be deleted in favor of improvement to Berrien street.

The Oak street-Mill Race bridge was deemed in danger of collapse two years ago, the mayor's letter said.

In a report on expenditures of the 1975-76 community development project, Mrs. Marian Ohmann, of Leslie Cripps and Associates, Berrien Springs consultants on community development applications, reported that of the $116,000 originally funded, $69,088 has been expended. An additional $44,000 in housing rehabilitation grants are being processed.

The city's contract with Cripps was amended by vote of the council from the original $15,500 to $18,753, an increase of $3,253.

Most of the increased expense is due to the unusual number or property inspections which did not culminate in grants or loans under the 1975 community development project. Five families who were processed have not received grants for reasons such as death or moving out of town. Fourteen homeowners have received grants under the rehabilitation program.

In other areas, the commission accepted a low bid of $27,495 from Hantlin-Risenberg Agency, Buchanan, for insurance coverage for the city.

Also bidding was the John DeVries Agency, St. Joseph, with a bid of $27,552.

Insurance coverages to be written through Home Owners Insurance Co., New York, and Auto Owners Insurance Co. of Michigan, include an all-risk institutional package policy for fire, buildings, burglary, comprehensive general liability for $500,000; auto fleet insurance for $300,000 and $500,000 bodily injury coverage, $100,000 property damage; and $1,000,000 umbrella liability coverage. The three-year policy is payable annually and subject to annual rating.

The commission approved a resolution to apply for $20,000 from the state contingency fund to reimburse the city for unusual expenses incurred by the snowstorm last January. The resolution named Tom McCall, director of the Berrien County Office of Emergency Preparedness, as agent to execute the application.

Robert Redmond, representing Arrow Cable TV, Kalamazoo, requested franchise to set up a cable TV system in the city. Redmond said basic installation would cost $20, and a monthly charge for 12 channels would be $8.

The cable system would be constructed with 50 per cent local labor, Redmond said, and added that maintenance, office and studio personnel would be hired locally. A local channel would be provided, with a two-way system to the schools for broadcasting as well as receiving, Redmond said.

The commission told Redmond that the city charter requires an election, to be financed by the applicant, to vote on approval of a franchise. Redmond was asked to return if his company has further interest in obtaining a franchise by this means.

A recommendation by City Manager Robert Faulhaber to form a policy on purchase of city-owned land was tabled for further study. The recommendation resulted from a request at the last meeting to purchase three lots owned by the city on Bluff street.

Because of a delay in advertising, a public hearing on vacation of alleys was postponed from July 11 to July 25.

The week of July 18-23 was designated by the commission as "CanAm Week," in recognition of the Olympic games in the CanAm program which officially begin July 15 with the Blue-Gold all-star basketball game at Niles high school.

George Wallace, senior vice-commander of Niles post 55, Disabled American Veterans, was given permission for the post to sell forget-me-nots on the streets of Buchanan Sept. 8-10.

SJ Teens Injured

COLOMA — Two young men were injured early today when their car ran off Coloma road west of here near Boyer road, according to Coloma township police.

Gary McCormick, 19, of 3521 Pine court, St. Joseph, was identified as the driver by police. He was treated and released from Watervliet Community hospital. His passenger, Dennis Ashley, 18, of 1272 Venus street, St. Joseph, was reported in fair condition at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, today.

Police said the accident occurred about 2:30 a.m. The car ran off the road and struck a utility pole, police said. McCormick was ticketed for reckless driving, police reported.

Thieves Hit

NILES — A Niles man told state police here last night that items valued at $1,200 including food stored in a freezer, were taken in a break-in of his garage east of here.

Robert Plomb, of the Misty Acres subdivision in Cass county's Howard township, told troopers he returned home from a weekend trip and discovered the break-in. Items reported missing included a whole beef, half a hog, 10 quarts of strawberries, two 10-speed bikes, and golf clubs.

No Ruling Yet On Teacher Bid

DETROIT — No ruling was made here yesterday in a hearing on a proposed change in bargaining agents for teachers in the River Valley school district.

At issue in the hearing before the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC) was a request from the River Valley Education association to change agents to a regional group called the 5-C association. The 5-C group would cover school districts in south Berrien county.

A labor negotiator representing the school district, Homer

LaPrinere of the Michigan Association of School Boards, said MERC officials expressed hope of reaching a decision on the proposed change in order to allow an election on the proposal in September, if the state agency rules in favor of the teachers.

LaPrinere said both sides will have a chance to submit written briefs on the case upon receipt of transcripts of yesterday hearing.

The transcripts are expected within 10 days and briefs must be filed within 14 days of receipt of the documents, he added.

Body Of Drowned Man Is Recovered

The body of Bill Craig Donkne, who drowned while swimming with his brother in the St. Joseph river Sunday, was recovered from the river at 11:30 a.m. Monday, according to the Berrien sheriff's marine division.

Mr. Donkne, who was reported to be a good swimmer, apparently drowned when he stepped off of a sand bar into deep water and was pulled under by the weight of water in his calf-length moccasins, according to Deputy Paul Watt.

The body of Mr. Donkne, 20, of 1639 East Marquette Woods road, St. Joseph, was recovered in the river between East Marquette Woods road in Roylton township and Dutch lane in Sodus township, Watt said. He was found near where he disappeared.

Dr. Richard Lininger, assistant medical examiner, ruled death due to drowning. Four people have drowned in Berrien county so far this year.

Mr. Donkne was born July 27, 1956, in St. Joseph. He was employed at R.E. Rebuilders company, Benton Harbor.

Survivors include his parents, Chester and Lucille Donkne, St. Joseph; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Luckner, Stevensville; two sisters, Mrs. Jodi (Georgiann) Lindley, Bangor, Mrs. Dean (Suzanne) Dorgele, Baroda; and a brother, Barry, at

Paw Paw Probing Child Porn Report

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — An Associated Press article that said cases of child pornography had turned up in Paw Paw drew reactions of surprise from several members of the Paw Paw village council last night.

The article, which appeared in last Thursday's edition of this newspaper, quoted State Sen. David Plawecki (D-Deerborn Heights) as saying cases of child pornography had turned up in Paw Paw, Muskegon, Detroit, Oakland county, Ann Arbor, and other communities.

The council instructed Police Chief George Fadel to investigate the source of the article as it tended to portray the village in an unfavorable manner.

Fadel said he knew of only one case that remotely resembled child pornography. In that instance, Fadel said, a man was arrested last year on a criminal sexual conduct charge after he had allegedly taken obscene pictures of children. However, the pictures were not made for public sale, Fadel said.

Plawecki, who is the sponsor of a bill which would impose prison terms of up to 20 years for people arranging or producing pornography involving minors, could not be reached for comment this morning.

Hearing Loss Is not a Sign of Old Age

Chicago, Ill. — A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Bel-tone. A non-operating model of the smallest Bel-tone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike... and some cannot be helped, but many can. Send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 932, Bel-tone Electronics Corp., 4301 W. Victoria, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Lakeshore Puts Two Tax Issues On Ballot

BY AL AREND
Staff Writer

Lakeshore school board in special session last night approved placing two property tax millage propositions on a special election ballot in August. One proposition will seek approval of two extra mills for school operating expenses and the second will seek one additional mill for operations also.

On June 13, Lakeshore school district voters turned out in small numbers to defeat a board request for three additional mills for three years by a vote of 1,094 to 684. The two new proposals will also be for three-year periods. The board has previously voted to hold the special election on Aug. 13.

William Galbreath, assistant superintendent of business affairs, said 3.5 mills are needed to meet the district's 1977-78 budget of $5.8 million, or about $600,000.

"We decided to use some of our cash fund equity and seek three extra mills, but that proposal was turned down," Galbreath said that going into the 1976-77 school year, the district had a cash fund equity of $495,000 of which some $285,000 was used to meet last year's budget. The board did not seek any millage increase in 1976.

One mill will raise an estimated $170,000 in local taxes and state aid for the Lakeshore school district. If both propositions are approved (3 mills total) then an equivalent of a half-mill ($85,000) would be used from the cash fund equity to meet the proposed budget. If just the two-mill proposal is approved then $200,000 from the fund equity would have to be used and $60,000 in cuts made. The two mills would raise about $340,000 in local and state aid.

If just the one-mill proposal passes, then $170,000 in local taxes and state aid would be raised, plus the $300,000 cash fund equity, leaving $230,000 worth of program cuts. If neither issue is approved, some $400,000 in program cuts would be required and the district's $200,000 cash equity fund would be depleted. The board made no promises on whether it would use the entire cash fund equity to offset cutbacks.

The board debated just how much millage it should seek at length last night and finally decided to place the two proposals on the ballot. The two proposals in reality give voters four choices. Approval of both proposals or three mills; approval of the two-mill issue; approval of the one-mill issue; or defeat of both.

Just four citizens, non-related to the school system's operation attended last night's meeting. Several teachers and administrators were also in attendance. John Steinke, board president, said he felt Lakeshore has the best school system in southwestern Michigan both from the quality of education received and the sound fiscal policies instituted by its administrators.

The district's current total millage rate is 29.276 mills. Possible cuts outlined by Supt. Frederick Schmidt and Galbreath included: Library books, $35,000; Library capital outlay, $7,000; social studies texts, $17,000; gym equipment, $3,000; capital outlay, $30,000; three new buses, $100,000; extra bus trips, $5,000; 7th grade science texts, $3,000; plus proposed new or expanded programs such as electricity shop, $18,000; building trades, $17,000; special reading classes, $35,000; and expanded physical education classes, $3,000.

"Or, we could cut out the music program, or band, or athletics," Steinke said. "Or take the easy-way out and pink-slip teachers when it comes budget time every year like most other school districts do."

The Lakeshore board refused to hand out pink-slip notices this spring. The board is also currently in negotiations with the Lakeshore Education Association (teachers' union) over a new contract for the upcoming school year. Projected teacher pay hikes were included in the board's $5.8 million projected budget for 1977-78.

Galbreath said that school district salaries, for all employees, make up 85 per cent of the budget. Several of those people present last night, suggested the board put on a better publicity campaign in an effort to explain the financial situation to district residents and get the vote out. In the last election, just 18.7 per cent of the district's registered voters turned out.

Galien Eyes School Grant

GALIEN — The Galien school board last night voted to seek a $1,586,247 federal anti-recession grant for a proposed school construction and remodeling project as soon as applications for the money may be filed again.

In a special meeting, the board authorized architects Daverman and Associates, Kalamazoo, to prepare the application after reviewing it with representatives of the firm.

As outlined by the architects, the proposed projects include $880,320 for additions totaling 25,152 square feet. They would include a new stage, cafeteria, six classrooms and additional restrooms.

Also being sought is $105,000 for new equipment; $400,997 for remodeling of present school buildings; $136,930 for a building contingency fund, and $25,000 in miscellaneous expenses.

The board was informed by the firm that the federal Economic Development Administration is not currently accepting grant applications, but that it expected the agency to do so later.

In other areas, the board authorized advertising for bids for rewiring and a new ceiling at the high school, to be opened at its July 11 meeting. The action came after Wightman and Associates, St. Joseph engineers, presented specifications for the work. No cost estimate was made.

Dr. Robert Tilmann, superintendent, reported he hoped to have bids by the July 11 meeting from local contractors for trim work on the interior of new windows now being installed at the high school. He said he had not been able to obtain local bids so far.

WINDOW REPLACEMENT : Replacement of 84 windows at Galien high school began last week with work being done by Metal Building Specialists, Kalamazoo, at cost of $62,619. New windows have dark brown porcelain panels on top and smaller windows below. They are to eliminate water leaks and heat loss of old style windows. A 1.7-mill property tax levy over last two years is funding improvements. Renewal of levy was defeated by voters in last school election. Completion of project is expected in August. (Norma Payne photo)

TV Can Sound Warning

By TOM RENNER

South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — A weather-alert system is now in service for customers of the Liberty Cable TV in the South Haven area, according to manager John Baranowski.

The system will be run through the South Haven police department. When a weather advisory is issued by the National Weather Service, the police will be able to override all channels on televisions of cable customers and provide the warning.

Liberty Cable serves approximately 1,500 residences in the city and township of South Haven.

The system is battery-operated and would not be affected by a power failure, according to Baranowski. He said the weather message will be preceded by a siren noise. All channels, except the local broadcast channel (number 6) will go blank. Normal programming will resume after the message is given.

Installation of the system was included in terms of a new franchise negotiated between the city and Liberty Cable last year.

Cass Man Arrested By Metro Squad

DOWAGIAC — Cass county metro narcotics officers yesterday arrested James Hargett, 18, Dowagiac, on a warrant charging delivery (sale) of marijuana. He was booked at the Cass county jail. Officers said the arrest stemmed from a two-month investigation. The warrant alleges Hargett sold suspected marijuana to undercover police officers.

Covert Program

COVERT — An adult summer recreation program in swimming and tennis will begin at Covert high school today and continue through the end of July, according to James Babcock, recreation program director. Registration will be held prior to the first session which will begin at 5 p.m. Sessions will run from 6 to 8 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. Registration will be held at the back entrance of the high school near the pool and auditorium. There is no charge for Covert residents, Babcock said.

Boy Rescued

THREE OAKS — Chikaming township police reported they were called upon yesterday afternoon to free an 11-year-old boy who caught his leg in a tree north of here. Patrolman Bill Tucker said Darrin Kunkel, son of Mrs. Judy Kunkel, Indian Trails road, Three Oaks, got his leg caught between two limbs after falling when climbing a tree near his home.

Tucker said he and Three Oaks police used a portable jack to spread the two tree limbs and free the boy who had been trapped for about 15 minutes.

Tucker said the boy's only injury was a bruise on his left leg

Covert Board President Out After Superintendent

COVERT — Donald Quinn, Covert school board president, told the board in special session last night he did not want to renew or extend the contract of Supt. William Randall.

Randall's current contract expires on June 30, 1978, and Quinn said he felt the contract should be let to expire.

This morning, when contacted by this newspaper, Quinn said he felt Randall was trying to run the superintendent's position "like a dictatorship."

Randall was hired as Covert school superintendent prior to the 1974-75 school year. Quinn was recently re-elected to another four-year board term.

Quinn said he made what he called a "personal statement" concerning the superintendent's position last night after the board voted to review at its August meeting the contracts with its top school administrators. The "adequacy of language" in the contracts would be involved in an effort "to equal things out" among them, Quinn said. After the voice vote, in which no "nos" were heard, Quinn made his "personal statement." Quinn said he made the personal statement, since as board president he is not allowed to make a motion.

No other board member made a motion in regards to not renewing Randall's contract and Quinn said this morning he would not attempt to terminate Randall's current contract before it expires.

Supt. Randall could not be reached this morning for comment. His secretary at school and son at Randall's South Haven home, both said the superintendent had left on vacation.

In a related area, review of contracts was again discussed when the board voted to pay Alan Dowdy, former administrative assistant and business manager, $7.50 per hour for work in preparation of the annual audit of the school district. Dowdy, who resigned the two posts at the board's June 14 meeting to accept a similar job with the Saginaw township school district, is doing the work on weekends, the board said. Board members questioned payment to Dowdy so soon after his resignation and said they felt contracts should include clearer language on the length of notification of resignations.

The accounting firm of Clausen and Donovan, Kalamazoo, was named to conduct the audit. In other areas, the board voted 5-1, with one member absent, to approve a proposal that the ratio of salaries between the highest paid teachers and three top administrators remain the same.

The proposal means that whatever raise the highest paid teacher gets, the district's top three administrators will receive no more than that amount.

Voting yes were Quinn, Bernard Lucas, Mrs. Alice Blair, Harold Bracken and Jerry Foster. Voting no was Carl Grigerell. Absent was L.C. Berry.

Action came as the board prepared to begin negotiations with the Covert Education Association (CEA) for a new master teacher contract. The talks are scheduled to begin Aug. 1.

Salaries of Supt. Randall, John Young, high school principal, and Alfred Hawkins, elementary principal, are to be tied to the ratio. The three men have been named as representatives for the school board in the contract talks with the CEA.

In other actions related to salaries, the board announced new state regulations will require the school district to pay retirement benefits for the school superintendent and the maintenance supervisor.

The maintenance supervisor, Terry Enders, was offered his first contract at a salary of $14,700. Enders was hired Aug. 9, 1976, at a salary of $14,000.

A $700 pay hike for Albert Woodley, transportation superintendent, from $13,300 to $14,000, was approved. The board said the hike included the cost of paid hospitalization and three weeks paid vacation.

Salaries of the food service supervisor, superintendent's secretary and bookkeeper were tabled. Board members asked for a job description for the food service chief and said the other two salaries were tabled pending a review of business office procedures authorized at the June 14 meeting.

Also last night, the board voted to seek approval from the state municipal finance commission to borrow up to $475,000 in anticipation of property taxes.

Man's Prison Garb No Bar To Fair Trial

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Although a defendant has the right to be tried in street clothing, a former Benton Harbor man who elected to stand trial dressed in prison clothing was not denied a fair trial, according to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

The appeals court denied a new trial for Vincent G. Guidry, 23, who was convicted in Berrien Circuit in 1975 while wearing prison clothes. Judge Julian E. Hughes offered to delay the jury trial to give Guidry time to get street clothing, but Guidry said he wanted to get the trial over and the case proceeded, the appeals court found.

"A defendant may not willingly go to trial in prison clothing and then claim error on appeal," the appeals court held in a ruling received last week by Berrien Circuit court. After the trial, Hughes denied a defense motion for a new trial based on Guidry's dress. Guidry then took it to the appellate court.

Guidry was convicted of breaking into the Norbert Bublick home in Fairplain Jan. 3, 1975. Before his trial on that charge he had been convicted of assault with a deadly weapon against a woman and sentenced to prison. He returned for the trial in prison clothes. He was sentenced to 5 to 15 years in prison on the break-in conviction.

Levy OKd In Hartford

HARTFORD — The Hartford city council last night voted to pay off a bond issue needed for a proposed sewer project through an annual debt retirement property tax millage levy.

The bond issue is to amount to $375,000 and is needed to pay the city's share of the $2.45 million project which includes a new sewer plant and interceptor line. Approval came in a 5 to 1 vote with 1 councilman absent.

Mayor Wayne Nelson said that according to a tentative debt retirement schedule the millage rate would range from 4.60 to seven mills per year. Nelson said that was based on an interest rate of six per cent in the sale of the bonds. The bonds have not yet been sold. The bond issue is to run for 22 years.

Nelson said that currently the city levies 15 mills for operation. A mill generates about $15,000 yearly in the city.

The actual amount of the debt retirement levy is to be set once the bonds are sold.

Voting against the plan was Councilman Michael Duffy. Voting yes were Nelson and Council members Lois Rodman, Louise Engle, Eugene Hadley, and Milton Wehmeier. Councilman Eugene Kirsch was absent.

In a related action, the council by the same vote approved new sewer use rates to meet operating costs of the system.

The new rates are $10 per quarter for the first 10,000 gallons and $1 for each additional 1,000 gallons used per quarter. Rates for non-metered users will be $25 per quarter. Current rates are based on a $15 charge for each 20,000 gallons on a semi-annual basis.

In other action, the council voted to crack down on commercial truck traffic on four streets. They include Elmwood, West Bernard, Pleasant and Haywood streets. The council said trucks have been tearing up the streets. A liquor by the glass license transfer was approved pending approval of the state liquor control commission. The license is to be transferred from Joseph Bunn to Dennis Evans of Kalamazoo for Joe's bar, 38 West Main

And in New York, Cauthen went to a department store to kick off sales of his record, autographing copies for customers.

The store's record department manager, Frank Lampel, seemed pleased.

"He sold 100 records. He did better than Helen Reddy. She only sold 90," said Lampel. "Considering he's not a major recording artist, he had a good day."

Cauthen won with his first mount on Monday as Flying Flunky, paid $6.40 in the sixth race. Then, he finished sixth with Harbor Springs in the seventh race, third with Gift-Of-King in the Saranac Stakes feature and seventh in the ninth race on 11-1 Kimberly Lass.

Cauthen's apprentice period was scheduled to end May 27 but he received an extension after being injured in a fall on May 23. He returned to action last Thursday and has ridden eight winners since, including two Sunday at Hullewood Park in California.

Steve Lammman collected a double and two singles for the winners and Mike Jackson added two hits. Maurice Bowman took the loss for Benton Harbor.

Marks struck out nine in his sparkling performance on the mound for Hartford.

A five-run second inning carried Hartford to the victory. Dewey Wheeler bolted out a double and a single and Louis Tutton added two hits for the winners, now 2-3. Marks collected a double.

RIVER VALLEY BOARD

Panel Urges New School

THREE OAKS — A 14-member committee appointed to look into district building needs, recommended to the River Valley school board last night that it undertake action to build a new middle school. Committee spokesman Gary Summers said the committee had found the costs of renovating the 50-year-old New Troy and Three Oaks middle schools to be prohibitive, and recommended a single new middle school.

Two $3.5 million bond issues to build a new middle school have been previously rejected by voters. Summers' report, which was approved by the board, also recommended that the committee remain active to help in future planning and to act as liaison with the public.

In other news, the board approved a bid by Farm Bureau Insurance to provide fleet coverage for 43 vehicles at a cost of $10,436 annually. The bid was the only one received. The purchase of textbooks in the following amounts were approved: 7th and 8th grade literature, $1,121; 6th grade spelling kits, $606; 8th grade algebra, $425; kindergarten math, $322; and high school economics, $243.

The board also approved the purchase of a tire changer for the auto shop and agricultural mechanics programs at a cost of $845; and agreed to give district custodians the same insurance benefits as other non-certified employees.

Dr. Charles Williams, superintendent, told the board that a bill pending before the state legislature would provide unemployment compensation to non-certified employees during summer and holiday vacations. Dr. Williams warned that should it pass, it would cost the district $435,342 per year.

Skipping Stone 'Pringles' Bringing Out Rule Book

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Man-made stones dubbed "the Pringles of the stoneskipping business" have thrown promoters of the annual Mackinac Island contest into a tizzy.

It all started when contest organizers announced there was a shortage of flat stones for the July 4 stone-skipping event.

Three mailbags full of stones have arrived from as far as Arizona, Kentucky, South Carolina and South Dakota, promoter Bill Rabe said Monday. Those stones will be used in the contest, but all of them must be boiled before they are allowed in Lake Huron.

But three Hamtramck, Mich., men sparked a controversy when they asked to enter their commercially produced stones. "I tend to think of them as the Pringles of the stoneskipping business," Rabe said.

The "Skippin' Stones," made by A.D. Design Services Inc., consist of washed beach sand and a non-toxic bonding. They are guaranteed to dissolve within three months of being skipped. The problem, Rabe said, is that the rules stipulate only "natural" stones may be skipped in the tournament.

A ruling on the imposters could be handed down by Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Joseph Gillis. But Rabe said the judges would probably refer the matter to the rules committee, which meets in November, and allow the new rocks to be tested in the meantime.

Natural stone donors who included a self-addressed, stamped envelope will receive a certificate telling them how their stones did in the contest.

However, some donors expect more for their generosity. The Chamber of Commerce of Put-in-Bay, Ohio, for example, requested Mackinac Island send tourists from the resort area to their community in return for some choice stones.

Hartford Begins Tightening Belt

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board last night approved one program cut for next year, and asked recommendations on cuts in coaching positions and teaching staff.

The program cut will eliminate the summer vocational agriculture program beginning in the summer of 1978. Cost of the program is about $4,000 per year. The board asked that school administrators bring back recommendations on the elimination of some assistant athletic coaching positions and one elementary teacher at the board's July 11 meeting.

The actions, according to Supt. Gary Waterkamp, are necessary in order to operate the system with the passage of two property tax millage requests totaling nine mills in a special election Aug. 8.

Voters on June 13 turned back a 10-mill package that combined renewal of six mills and an additional four mills. At a special meeting last week the board approved placing two separate proposals on the Aug. 8 ballot, one for the six-mill renewal and one for an additional three mills. In other areas, the board approved seeking a replacement principal at the Red Arrow elementary school. Board Member Roger Duncombe said he felt principals were needed at both buildings to maintain discipline.

The board had previously discussed having one principal in charge of both Red Arrow and Woodside elementary. Since February Miss Mary Le. McDonnell has been acting principal at the school in addition to her regular duties as principal of Woodside elementary.

The board learned that an ad hoc citizens committee will hold an organizational meeting Wednesday to promote approval of the millage issues in the Aug. 8 election. The meeting will be held at 1 p.m. in the middle school learning center.

Covert Recount Confirms Vote

COVERT — The Van Buren county board of canvassers recount of the Covert school millage election results turned up the same results as recorded on the day of the election, according to Charles MacDonald, Van Buren county clerk.

The recount showed results of the June 13 election to be 506 to 418 in favor of renewing a 15.5-mill property tax levy. The millage was half a mill less than a 16-mill levy that expired with the last tax collection.

The recount was completed Monday.

Covert Schools Supt. William Randall said the recount was sought be a group calling itself the Organization for a Better Community.

Harry Sarno, vice president of the organization, said the group had "no particular reason" in asking for the recount. He said the group wanted a "better look at the process." According to Sarno, Mrs. Jerome Shumate is president of the group and Mrs. Mary Landry is secretary treasurer. He estimated the size of the group at between 35 and 40 members.

MacDonald said requests for recounts may be made up to six days after an election and that no specific reason need be cited. The $5 fee per precinct to be recounted is the only requirement for a recount, he said. Covert has two precincts.

Only the millage results were recounted, not the contest for a four-year term on the school board which was won by incumbent Donald Quinn. At last night's meeting of the Covert school board, Bernard Lucas, board secretary, was critical of the board of canvassers over notification of the recount.

Lucas said a certified letter informing the school district was sent to Supt. William Randall, but Randall was on vacation and no one else could accept the letter.

The board secretary said he first learned the recount was being conducted when the board of canvassers appeared at the school district at 9:35 a.m. yesterday.

New Buffalo School Bias Fight May Cost $10,000

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board last night authorized Supt. Walter Schwarz to publicly defend the administration and board positions on a sex discrimination complaint filed by the New Buffalo teachers association.

The board unanimously agreed in a statement that publicity released during the past several months by the association "has constantly maintained a negative position and is costing the school district money."

Schwarz told the board that a complaint filed by the teachers association with the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) over implementation of the federal anti-sex discrimination act could cost the district $10,000 to fight the case should it go to Washington D.C. for review.

The association filed a grievance with the board saying it was not doing an adequate job of implementing the program to bring sex equality to the district's sports program. The board responded by saying that the programs were being instituted as quickly as possible. The teachers rejected that response and filed the complaint with HEW.

Schwarz said the case could "involve reams of paperwork and years of litigation." In other action, the board approved recalling Max Burnell, high school social studies teacher and varsity football coach. He was one of 17 teachers who were notified in March they would not be recalled unless funds became available. Last week the board recalled 11 teachers.

The board accepted the low bid of the Bank of Three Oaks of 3.35 per cent interest on a loan of $150,000. The loan is to be paid off with state aid funds which will not become available until August. Two other bids of 4 and 4.5 per cent were received. The board invoked its mandatory retirement policy in retiring library aide Mrs. Betty Haenker who turned 65 during the past school year. Schwarz said volunteer parents would act as aides and save the district the aide's salary of $4,158 per year. Schwarz told the board he has promoted Mrs. Irene Brinkman from secretary in his office to a position of business and finance supervisor. Her salary will be set later. He also said he planned to hire a clerk-typist for the superintendent's office through the Comprehensive Employment Training act with approval from the Berrien county CETA office.

The board set its reorganizational meeting for July 11 at 8 p.m. in room 112 at Central school.

Military Bases Recycling Cans

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The government is offering a nickel for each beer and soda can returned to officials at the Yuma Marine Corps Air Station, Ft. Huachuca and eight other military installations around the country.

Each can sold on the bases involved in the program to recycle aluminum ordered by the Defense Department and the Environmental Protection Agency is marked with a sticker, "Government Sale — Five-cent Deposit."

"The reaction of the customers has been anything but negative," said Capt. Jim Ritchie, in charge of the recycling program that began at the Yuma base May 13. "We were used to it when we were kids, and not too terribly long ago, this was a way of life."

It's too soon to tell for sure, Ritchie said, but he estimated 90 per cent of all beverage cans sold on the base are being returned.

The enthusiasm, apparently, is not shared by distributors.

"So far we've experienced a loss of can sales — I'd say a 50 per cent loss," said Jack Fritz Jr., owner of Fritz Bottling Co. of Yuma, which distributes soft drinks to the base. "We saw a lot of people going into town to buy their drinks."

George Ahearn, who runs the recycling project at Ft. Huachuca, said, "Most of the comments have been, 'Why haven't you done this before?'" But he acknowledged "some negative comments like, 'Hell, I'll go downtown. I don't want to fool with it.'"

A six-pack costs 30 cents more on base than in town, but the deposit is reimbursed with return of the cans.

Gene Carrillo, beer sales manager for Arizona Distributing Co. of Tucson, said no money figures were available yet for the Ft. Huachuca program, begun May 23. But he said he's felt the impact.

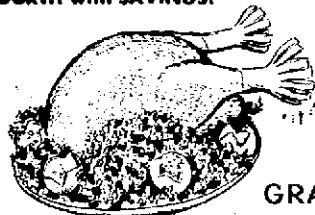

"It's caused a hell of a lot of work for us," he said. "The Department of Defense says we have to do it as a test program, so we have to go along with it."

In Yuma, a private firm recycles the aluminum cans, Ritchie said. At some installations, the recycling is done on the base, he said.

Other installations participating in the year-long program are Ft. Knox, Ky.; Ft. Riley, Kan.; Naval Support Activity, Philadelphia; Whidbey Island Naval Air Station, Wash.; China Lake Naval Weapons Center, Calif.; Laughlin Air Force Base, Tex.; Malmstrom Air Force Base, Mont.; and Patrick Air Force Base, Fla.

KITCHEN SNOOPING:

Marinate grapes in dry white vermouth before adding to a Waldorf salad. Great taste in each bite of a grape (Gaslight Clubs). . . For a quick budget dish put partially cooked cauliflower buds in a casserole, top with cheese sauce and brown in a hot oven. (Assembly Steakhouse, NYC). . . Do not discard celery tops. Chop them and use in salads, soups, stuffings, stews and sandwich spreads. (Mrs. B's kitchen)

FADED PHRASES: "He just sits there like a bump on a log." . . . Sue Lenz, the chimp tamer with the Ringling Bros. & Barnum & Bailey Circus, says the favorite monkey munch of her simian stars is marshmallows. . . The Harlem Globetrotters played seven games in Israel and it's a good thing they did. Meadowlark Lemon explained: "Curly Neal missed four foul shots in a row — and ran straight to the Walling Wall!" . . . Peripatetic painter Dong Kingman says there are just four famed eateries serving chow mein in its simplest, most tasteful style. They are Bu Bo and Bill Hong's, NYC; Trader Vic's in S.F., and Joy Gardens in Hong Kong. . . Visitors to NYC can learn the Hora, Israel's national dance, gratis, at El Avram, the Manhattan Israeli cafe. . . Sandwich Favorite of Elizabeth (Hanky Panky) Martyn at Union Plaza, Vegas: Crisp bacon and avocado slices and sliced tomato on large slices of rye bread, covered with melted jack cheese.

HELPFUL HINTS: To remove stains from wooden forks and spoons, rub with slice of lemon sprinkled with salt. . . To remove printing from plastic lids (ice cream, coffee, etc.) rub for a few seconds with a sudsy steel wool pad.

Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, June 28, the 179th day of 1977. There are 186 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, the heir to the throne of Austria-Hungary, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, was assassinated at Sarajevo, Bosnia. It was the spark that set off the First World War.

On this date: In 1776, the Revolutionary War Battle of Monmouth, N.J., took place. Molly Pitcher's aid to Colonial troops made her a heroine in American history. In 1838, Britain's Queen Victoria was crowned.

In 1919, the Versailles Treaty was signed in France after World War One.

In 1941, guerrilla warfare against the Nazis began in Yugoslavia during World War Two.

In 1950, in the Korean War, North Korean soldiers captured the South Korean capital of Seoul.

In 1965, U.S. and South Vietnamese airplanes dropped nearly three million leaflets over North Vietnam, appealing to the people to press their leaders to end warfare against South Vietnam.

Ten years ago: King Hussein of Jordan met with President Lyndon Johnson in Washington to discuss Jordan's plight after the Six Day War with Israel.

Five years ago: President Richard Nixon announced another withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Vietnam and directed that no more draftees be sent to that country unless they volunteered.

One year ago: An Indian Ocean group of islands, the Seychelles, became independent after 162 years under British rule.

Today's birthday: Composer Richard Rodgers is 75.

Thought for today: "I don't know whether war is an interlude during peace, or peace an interlude during war." — Georges Clemenceau, French statesman, 1841-1929.

Two Men Escape Prison Terms For Sex Offenses

Two men were sentenced to prison yesterday in Berrien Circuit court for weapons and larceny charges, while two sex offenders were placed on probation.

Judge Chester J. Byrns said one man got probation because of a good record and the other received probation because the victim of an attempted rape had recommended probation.

Sentenced to 1½ to 4 years in prison by Byrns for larceny in a building was Steven D. Cooper, 17, of 960 Bishop avenue, Benton Harbor. He was charged with stealing a cash box from Blusomland restaurant in Benton township on Dec. 18.

Byrns noted Cooper has a lengthy juvenile record and told him: "You had the benefit of the juvenile court services and they didn't seem to have any effect on you."

Judge Zoe S. Burkholz imposed a 15 to 30-month prison sentence on Charles G. Austin, 33, of Lansing, for attempting to carry a concealed weapon — a .45 caliber automatic pistol — July 4, 1976, on I-196 in Hagar township. Byrns ordered Leroy D. Jackson, 25, of 407 11th drive, Benton township, to begin a two-year probation with 180 days in jail for fourth degree criminal sexual conduct. He was charged with having sexual contact with a woman in Benton township on Aug. 26. The judge told Jackson he had debated with himself on a possible prison term, "and the only thing saving you from prison is that the victim and her husband were interviewed and they recommended probation."

"That's what I call clarity," Byrns commented, "but don't get mixed up in anything like this again." The judge also ordered Jackson to pay $200 fine and costs, and ordered him to serve the last 60 days of probation in jail, but said that jail term could be suspended for good behavior during probation.

Carl D. Clark, 31, of 810 Lions Park drive, St. Joseph, was placed on two years probation and assessed $250 fine and costs for accosting and soliciting a minor for immoral purposes. He was accused of accosting a 13-year-old girl in July and August, 1976. "No previous record and your enrolling in a therapy program is what's keeping you from a prison sentence," Byrns told Clark. Clark is a former St. Joseph fireman. In an arraignment before Byrns, James M. Tweedy, 18, of Niles, pleaded guilty to delivery of marijuana April 19 in Niles. In arraignments before Judge Burkholz, Robert F. Sewell, Jr., 17, of 680 McCord street, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to attempted breaking and entering the residence of Deborah Rheams, at 747 Buena Vista, Benton township, on June 4. Gene C. Dawson, 28, of Sawyer, pleaded guilty to assault with a deadly weapon — a revolver — against James T. Penny Dec. 5 in Benton township.

Leander Lewis, 57, of 1118 Broadway, Benton Harbor, pleaded guilty to carrying a concealed weapon, a pistol, and assault with a deadly weapon, the same gun, against Mary Lewis May 25 in Benton Harbor.

PAPAL APPEAL: Pope Paul IV appealed to Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, above, and his traditionalist followers to end their rebellion against modernization of Roman Catholic Church, at a consistory in Vatican City Monday. Pope Paul stripped Archbishop Lefebvre of all priestly functions after he ordained group of rebel priests last June 29. (AP Wirephoto) about the coolant water discharge from Seabrook might "disturb a clam so little as to be no more than an obscure reference in a biology textbook." Even though this statement itself should tell us, it does not seem an intelligent thing to do to disturb something one knows so little about, nor what part it plays in the ecology of nature. All living things are interdependent and the disturbance of one link could very well disturb others.

Let us not put down college students, even if they become protesters. They are concerned about their environment and they are the people who will have to adjust to the mistakes being made today. I chance to say that college students today, more than 30 years ago, are giving more thought to the environment in which they live.

Paw Paw Contract Talks Delayed Until Tax Vote

PAW PAW — The Paw Paw school board voted 5 to 1 Monday night not to consider contracts with school employees until the results of a July 18 millage election are known.

The board had been scheduled to consider contracts for supervisory, central office, and administrative personnel, and Supt. Norval S. Bovee.

But the majority of the board seemed to feel that any possible increases should be put off until the fate of a 19.92-mill property tax levy for operations is known.

The levy includes a renewal of 18.42 mills which expired with the last tax collection, plus a 1.5 mill increase. The package was defeated by voters June 13, but was again placed on the ballot by the board last week. It would raise an estimated $1,932,000 in local property taxes and state aid toward a tentative 1977-78 budget of $3.4 million.

The lone dissenter in the vote on contracts was Mrs. Betty Rasmussen, who said she favored going ahead with contract discussions. Voting not to proceed were Robert LaRue, William Rhodes, Douglas Howe, Gloria Jean Berry, and Kenneth Taylor. Robert Teske was absent.

The board also discussed a number of ways of promoting passage of the millage issue. In order to explain the need for the increase, board members said they will send a letter for publication in a local weekly newspaper, put an article in a school newsletter sent to district residents, and tape short spots for use on two local radio stations.

In other areas, the board instructed Bovee to have the district's maintenance supervisor inspect a building the district is considering renting.

Bovee said he is currently negotiating a lease on the building on Red Arrow highway near the Rainbow Lakes to house administrative offices. He said the district wants assurances that the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ward, will maintain the septic tank, roof, well, and heating systems.

He said the Wards do not wish to put any additional money into the building and will only guarantee the roof.

Darrell Crose, administrative assistant, advised the board on a pending bill in the state legislature which would grant unemployment benefits to non-certified personnel during Christmas and Easter vacations, and the summer.

He estimated that if the bill is passed, it could cost Paw Paw between $40,000 and $50,000 per year. Statewide, the cost to school districts has been estimated at $70 million, he said.

FDA Extending Comment Time On Saccharin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials, alarmed by grim new reports from Canada, are considering tougher sanctions against saccharin but will allow more time for scientific reviews before banning the artificial sweetener.

Food and Drug Administration Commissioner Donald Kennedy said Monday he is extending the time for comment on the proposed government saccharin ban until Aug. 31.

This will allow the public and scientists time to go over new evidence linking the artificial sweetener with bladder cancer in males.

RUSSIAN TENOR DIES
MOSCOW (AP) — Sergei Y. Lemeshev, one of the Bolshoi Theater's leading operatic tenors from 1931 until 1965, has died, the newspaper Moskovskaya Pravda reported today. He was 75.

Millage Cut Would Cost Gobles Schools $45,000

GOBLES — Guy Leversee, Gobles school superintendent, told the school board here last night that if the district has a mill cut from its property tax the district would lose $45,000 in property tax and state aid revenue.

Leversee made the comment after the board received a letter from the an Buren county tax allocation board which stated there is a possibility of a one-mill cut.

The letter came as a result of legal action on the part of 15 townships in the county which seeks to overturn the formula set by the allocation board in dividing 15 non-voted mills among the townships, schools and county.

Under the formula, Gobles and South Haven school districts receive 9.58 mills because both are city districts serving bi-county areas. The other districts receive 8.58 mills.

The townships' petition to the Michigan Tax Tribunal seeking to overturn the formula, contends that the additional mill allocated for Gobles and South Haven result in taxpayers in those districts paying one mill above the 15-mill limitation. Currently the allocation formula calls for 5.25 mills for county operation, 17 of a mill for the Van Buren intermediate school district and one mill for the townships in addition to the rate for school districts. The townships are seeking an additional half mill.

In other action, the board authorized rehiring six teachers notified in March that they would not be rehired for next year. The action came as a result of the passage of an 11.9-mill property tax millage renewal. Voters approved the renewal in the June 13 school election.

Approval was given to Randal Bos, elementary principal, and Tommie Saylor, junior-senior high school principal to purchase new textbooks for the 1977-78 year. Costs of the elementary texts are $5,960 and junior-senior high books, $2,962. The board was notified that the district will receive $28,568 in federal title I funds for administering reading programs in the schools.

The board approved hiring David Northrup, a Western Michigan University student as head wrestling coach for next year. His salary will be $500, six per cent of the base teacher salary. The board also approved naming Kenneth Harvey, a sixth grade teacher at Gobles as junior high school track coach. A proposed athletic budget of $12,338 for next year was tabled until figures for any trophy purchase are included. The budget was presented by Mitchell Zaleski, athletic director. Last year's athletic budget was $13,167.

Customs Probes Cash Transfers

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Customs Service is investigating more than 100 multinational corporations suspected of secretly transporting cash in or out of the country, possibly in violation of the act, the New York Times has reported.

Bainbridge Road Work Given Okay

Improvements to Bainbridge Center and Maner roads, were approved last night by the Bainbridge township board.

Township Clerk Mrs. Beverly Kiroch reported the board approved paving Bainbridge Center road, from Territorial road to North Branch road, a distance of 1.51 miles at a cost of $35,600. The work will be done by the Berrien county road commission.

Maner road was to be graded, gravelled and double sealed from Rusyn road to its end. The costs of the work will be shared by both Bainbridge and Benton township, with Bainbridge township's cost amounting to $9,375. Benton township will pay $28,125.

In other areas, the board approved erecting parking signs along both the north and south sides of Territorial road, in front of the old township hall, to eliminate motorist blind spots.

The board approved graveling Camody road, between Boyer and Park roads, and took under advisement erecting an overhead stop sign at the intersection of Napier and Park roads.

Candidate Gets A Carter Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is boosting one of the nation's two Democratic candidates for governor with a meeting in the Oval Office. But a spokesman for the other candidate says he has gotten no similar invitation.

Carter invited Henry Howell, the Democratic candidate for governor of Virginia, to lunch today at the White House. Before the luncheon session in the Oval Office, Carter set aside time to pose with Howell for photographs in the Rose Garden.
